HOME TALENT LOOMS UP STRONG

A Large Audience in Entertained at Opera House by the Rendition "In Old New Hampshire."

The Metropolitan Stock company
put up a fairly good show at the opera house on Tuesday evening, and there was a large and appreciative audience present to see the production, and everybody seemed to be well pleased with what they saw.

In Old New Hampshire is a good play and materially different from the average run of way-down-on-the-farm productions that have been worked to death in one form and another. There is an abundance of fun as well as pathos that appeal strongly to the listeners and makes it a very strong play.

The snow storm in the third act was one of the most real things of the kind that has been produced on the stage in this city for many a day, and the wind that accompanied the storm was so real that several of the more sensitive ones in the audience contracted severe colds although the hall was quite warm at the time.

While a lack of space and time prevents giving each one an individual review, it is no more than just to say that as a company they did better than many troupes that strike town
and pass themselves off as professionals and make their living in the theatrical business, and while they may have shown some weak spots, they bring forth another play and make as honest an effort to please the public as they did in "Old New Hampshire" they will find the public ready to patronize them.

The company goes to Pittsville on tomorrow evening, and we venture the assertion that they will put up one of the best shows that was ever seen in that city.

City Will Prospector for Water on Vaughan Property.

At the meeting of the city council on Wednesday evening of last week it was decided to take an option on the property south of the pumping station for the purpose of prospecting for water to supply the waterworks
with a sufficient supply.

The purchase price agreed on by the interested parties is $2800 and the option extends over 94 days, by which time it is figured that the matter can be investigated and if there is a sufficiency of water the balance of the purchase price will be paid over. The land that the city holds the option on includes two flowing springs that are used by Mr. Vaughan for irrigating purposes, and which in themselves furnish considerable water, although not enough to supply the city.

City Engineer Philco is confident that an abundance of water can be secured from this land, in fact more than the city will use for years to come, and if this is so, the money spent for the property will be well invested.

Many parties on the east side have had the water mains tapped since the system was accepted by the city, and many more are anxiously awaiting the time when they can also be supplied with water.

Married.

On Tuesday, November 11, at the Catholic church in this city, Mr. Grant
S. Beardsley and Miss Maggie Hamm,
Rev. F. VanRoosmalen officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara Hamm, and Mr. John
Hamm filled the capacity of best man.
Both the young people are well and most favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Mrs. John Hamm, while Mr. Beardsley is an employee in the store of the Heineman Mercantile company.

morning over the Northwestern for Chicago and other points and will be gone a week or more on a wedding tour. Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley will be at home to their friends in this city
after November 22nd. The Tribune unites with the many friends of the newly wedded pair to wish them hap-

The Old Wisconsin Yields up Another Mystery.

On Sunday while the two boys of August Kempfert were engaged in setting traps for muskrat on their father's farm north of Biron they made a gruesome discovery on the river bank in the shape of a skeleton which lay half buried in the sand.
The boys notified some older people
and investigation showed that the skeleton had undoubtedly been in the ground for some time and had only recently been uncovered by the action of the water. The skeleton was pronounced to be that of a man by those who saw it, and of course the lapse
of time had destroyed any external evidences that might assist in identifying the remains, and just who the unfortunate one was when in the mortal flesh, or whether he was murdered
and thrown into the river, drowned
and forgotten, or died a natural death
and was buried on the river bank and subsequently washed out by the action of the water, will never be known.

The finding of the unknown skeleton, however, recalls to the old residents who have lived in that section for many years, a mystery that puzzled
the residents there for some time and then died out without being solved or anybody being punished for what was then supposed to be a crime.

A generation ago there lived on the west side of the river an old bachelor by the name of Charles Mitch. Mitch resided about a mile and a half above where Biron now stands and where at that time there was a sort of a ferry maintained across the river. Mitch was supposed to have some money
and one day he was found to be missing, and although search was instituted for him nothing was ever discovered of his whereabouts. Later on Alex Taylor, who also lived on the west side of the river in the same vicinity, disappeared, and although he was searched for his whereabouts was not discovered.

Some time after this a body was discovered in the Wisconsin river, and all the evidences showed that the man had been foully murdered. There was a bullet hole through the man's hips and several gashes in the head and face showed where he had been struck several murderous blows with the sharp edge of an ax. There was no doubt in anybody's mind how he had met his death, as his clothing had also been weighted with rocks when
the body was thrown into the river, but the formation of gases had subsequently caused it to float to the surface. The body was easily identified as that of Alex Taylor.

After the discovery of Taylor's body
a report was circulated that Taylor had been the cause of Mitch's disappearance, but there was nothing to substantiate this story and no credence was given the matter by those who knew Mr. Taylor and who knew him to be a good citizen during his life. The discovery of Mr. Taylor's body and the story circulated revived
the search for the remains of Mitch, but nothing was ever discovered that would have any tendency to unravel
the mystery or throw any light whatever on the matter. Now some of the old residents say that this skeleton may be all that remains of Mitch, and that after thirty years of obscurity it has come to light as a reminder if not
a solution of one of the mysteries that formed a part in the earlier history of Wood county.

In answer to a telephone message from Biron Justice W. H. Gettis went to the scene of the finding on Tuesday for the purpose of making an investigation and discovering if possible where the remains had come from and to whom they belonged. After considerable inquiry it was discovered that a man had been found in the river about sixteen years ago, and as the identity of the person was not discovered at the time a rude box was constructed and the remains buried on the river bank. It was evident at the time that the body had been in the river for some time and that he had floated down from some point considerably north of here and as none of his relatives were known the only thing to be done was to bury the body. Upon examination Mr. Gettis discovered that there were the remains of a coffin or box about the skeleton, indicating that it had been buried before. It is probable that when the body was buried in the first place it was some little distance from the water's edge, but the lapse of time has changed the course of the current sufficiently to wash out the remains
and expose them to view.

MAY BE A LENGTHY SESSION.

Large Grist of Bills to Audit.—Other News Items of Interest About
the City.

The county board met at the court house in this city on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Chairman John Juno presiding. After calling the roll and finding a quorum present an adjournment was taken until Thursday in order to give the committee time to perform their labors. There are a large number of bills to audit at this session, but outside of this it is not expected that there will be much
of especial interest to the general public.

One matter that will come up at this meeting of the board will be the
proposed moving of the poor farm.
It is the general opinion of the members, so far as they have been inter-
in the matter as it now stands, owing probably to the cost involved in making the change. It is not expected that the board will be able to finish its labors this week.

Went Like Hot Cakes.—E. C.
Ketchum received a carload of hard coal last week and he had it disposed
of in short order, even at the unusual price of $12.50 per ton. Mr. Ketchum states that the coal cost him over $12
a ton on the track here, so he did not make any great money by the transaction, when the cost of delivering is figured in. He states, however, that
to get a reduction from this price in the near future and that he can supply
his customers at a more moderate rate. Owing to the proximity of the close of navigation it is not probable that this commodity will be a great deal lower this season, and it is the consensus of opinion among dealers
and others that the price will never go back to where it was before the strike as the mine owners will improve the opportunity to make a good thing off from the general public as long as they are able to do so.

Potatoes Stronger.—During the past week potato buyers have been paying thirty cents per bushel for potatoes and the indications are that they will be better in price than this before a great while, as the supply is
not large enough to warrant the low price that the tubers have been selling at since the opening of the season. Ben Hanson, who has charge of the Cops warehouse in this city, has purchased a large number of onions this fall, paying 40 cents a bushel for them. Mr. Hansen states that the farmers in the neighborhood of Arpin
are going into the raising of onions quite extensively and that the land in that section is well-adapted for their culture, so that with proper cultivation they get fairly good crops and consequently get good returns for their labor. It is the opinion of those who have engaged in onion raising
for any length of time that the crop
of this product is surer than potatoes and the price is always higher.

Will Run on Time.—The members of the school board have closed a contract for a program clock which will be installed in the new high school, which it is calculated will keep the children and their teachers moving on time the year round.
The affair is a system of clocks that are regulated by a parent clock in the principal's room, and can be set so that when time comes for the end of a recitation the gongs in all the recitation rooms ring simultaneously, and thus all of the scholars will be enabled to move at the same time, and will avoid any confusion or waiting for other classes. The gongs and other clocks are actuated and regulated by a pneumatic arrangement that connects up the whole system and the affair is considered just the thing for a modern school building.

Found Not Guilty.—Frank Smol-
ark was arrested last week at the instigation of Albert Pozorski, charged with assault and battery. The assault was claimed to have occurred some time before on an evening when there was a political rally in the town hall in the town of Sigel. It appears that during or after the rally some intoxicating liquor had been brought to the place, an unusual thing during a political meeting, and some of those present imbibed so much more than
was their custom that they became imbued with a desire to wallop some
of their neighbors, and the consequence was that there was quite a lively scrap, in which several took an active part. After listening to all the evidence the jury decided that Mr.
Smolark was not guilty and he was discharged.

Occupies New Home.—Jas. Chamberlain has removed into his new home on French street which has been
in course of construction during the past summer and he now occupies one of the most modern and up-to-date residences in the city. All the modern appliances have been placed into this building to make it convenient for living purposes and the interior is a model of convenience. Five years ago when Mr. Chamberlain bought the lot on which his dwelling stands
the place was little more than a frog pond, the ground being low and swampy and often covered with water.
Mr. Chamberlain has had several thousand loads of dirt hauled out to the place and the result is that the surroundings are now as high and dry as one could wish for.

A Peculiar Accident.—The five months old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett met with a peculiar accident on Tuesday evening. The child was sitting on the floor when a portion of the plastering dropped from the ceiling and struck the boy on the head.

The scalp was cut open by the force of the blow and it was necessary for
a surgeon to take three stitches in the wound in order to close it. It is not considered that the little fellow will suffer any further trouble from the wound.

Returned the Clapper.—On Halloween some boys removed the clapper from the bell in the high school and when the janitor went to ring the bell
the next morning he thought he had lost his hearing there was such a profound silence. The janitor tumbled to the racket, or rather the lack of racket, and reported the matter to Superintendent Yonker. This gentleman kindly admonished the boys to desert their wayward ways and return
the property without delay, and the clapper was subsequently found in a nearby tree.

Labor Saving Device.—J. H. Landry, the harness maker, has installed in his shop a sewing machine which he uses for the purpose of sewing all kinds of harness work. The machine is a heavy affair and will sew through
the heaviest tug with apparent ease, although the operator has to exert considerable energy with his feet while the concern is in operation. It is certainly much speedier than hand work and the manufacturers claim that the work done by it is stronger than that performed by hand.

Hackett's Orchestra Coming.—On Thursday evening, November 20th, Hackett's Baraboo orchestra will be at the opera hall in this city to give a concert and dance. This orchestra is one of the best in the state both for furnishing concert and dance music and those who attend may depend on hearing some good music as well as having a good time at the dance.
Prices will be 25 cents each for the concert and 75 cents per couple for the dance. Dancing will commence at 9 o'clock.

Wrestling Match.—Fred Beell of Marshfield has been matched to wrestle with Emil Klauk on Friday evening, November 17th, for $100 a side, the match to take place in Marshfield. Klauk is a heavyweight who has recently sprung into prominence
by winning some fairly good battles
and the match promises to be a good
one. The match will be catch-as-catch-can and the men will meet at catch weights.

Want a Bank.—The citizens of Pittsville are making an effort to have a national bank established in their city. The Pilot is authority for the statement that there has been enough money raised to assure the establishment of a bank, and it would seem as if there would be an urgent demand for an institution of this sort in a city that is so completely isolated from any of the banks in the neighborhood.

Will Hold Opening.—A. C. Otto has
got his drug store so nearly completed that he is preparing to hold a formal opening of the place on Wednesday and Thursday, November 19 and 20.
The general public is invited to be present and participate in the affair.
There will be music on the occasion and those who attend will receive souvenirs.

Advised to Leave.—Julia Blakeley
and Sarah Brown were arrested on Saturday charged with running a house of ill fame. They were brought before Justice Crotteau, when the case was adjourned for one week and the prisoners advised to leave town without delay. The two women were negroes who have been living on the west side.

Will Go to Pittsville.—The members of the Metropolitan Stock company intend to take their show to Pittsville and produce it there on the evening of Thursday, November 13th.
There is no doubt but they will meet with success and a full house there.

First of the Season.—D. M. Huntington was the first man to bring in a deer this fall, but as Dwight has a deer park with a number of tame deer he failed to convince anybody of his prowess as a hunter.

Death of Dalbert Miller.

Dalbert Miller died at the home of his sister, Miss Libbie Miller, at Stevens Point on Friday after an illness extending over several months. The cause of death was consumption. The young man was well known in this city and vicinity, having been a resident of the town of Grand Rapids for many years. He had become so weak from the inroads of the disease that was wasting away his life that his sister came here and prevailed on him to go to Stevens Point where she was in hopes she could benefit him by careful nursing, but all efforts were in vain. The funeral was held on Monday, the remains being brought to this city and interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

Died at Poor Farm

Peter Lillie, an inmate of the poor farm, died at that institution on the 7th instant, after an illness of only a few days. The deceased came from Sherry where he has two sons living,
and has been an inmate of the place for the past six years. He was 88 years old.

From an Auctioneer.

Col. C. H. McDonald of Greenview,
Ills., in a letter May 1st, 1901, says,
"I am an auctioneer and being often exposed to the weather, am seriously troubled by my throat becoming irritated and hoarseness following.
When troubled in this way, I always use Hart's Honey and Horchound. It is the only remedy that has ever done
me any good and it positively cures."

BURNED THREE BLOCKS.
SEVERAL MANUFACTURING PLANTS
IN CAMDEN, N. J., DESTROYED.

Grand Opera House at Nashville, Tenn., Completely Gutted—Blaze at New Haven, Conn.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 8.—The plants of the Nonpareil Cork Manufacturing Company, the Camden Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of chemicals, and McAndrews & Forbes, liquor manufacturers, comprising about a dozen of frame buildings located at Kaigh's Point, in the southern section of this city, were destroyed by fire today. The combined loss is estimated at $250,000. John Dougherty, fireman on the tug Ashbridge, was badly burned and was taken to the Cooper Hospital. The origin of the fire is unknown.
Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Fire which was discovered in the Grand Opera House, one of Nashville's leading theaters, at an early hour this morning, completely gutted that building, entailing a loss estimated at $300,000.
New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8.—Fire at 2 o'clock this morning destroyed the plant of the E. A. Chatfield Company, metal contractors, on West Boulevard avenue.
Loss estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

TRAINMEN TO VOTE.
Railroads Concede But Half of the Demands and Strike May Be Ordered.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 8.—Eight thousand members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed in the switch-yards of the Chicago district are considering a proposition to strike if the railroad companies do not grant them an increase in wages amounting to 5 cents an hour.
Two weeks ago the men filed their demands with the seventeen companies entering Chicago, and yesterday morning they received their answer. Instead of 5 cents an hour raise, which amounts to 20 per cent, they were offered a raise of 2½ cents an hour for the men and 3½ for the foremen.
The executive committee of the brotherhood refused to accept the terms proposed. They held that their demands were just and should be met. They notified the companies to that effect, and then drew up a strike proposition for the men. This was sent out late last night to all members of the organization.
The brotherhood by its own laws cannot call a strike until a period of thirty days has expired after the agreement with the roads has been declared null and void.
The present wage scale and the wage scale demanded are as follows:
Day foremen $2.75 per hour.
Night foremen 2.25 " "
Day switchmen 2.25 " "
Night switchmen 2.25 " "
This scale has been in force for over ten years. It was framed when the engines on the roads were small, the cars in a train few, and the work in the yards light. The present movement is the first of its kind in the West, and is the beginning of a general campaign for higher wages that will affect freight brakemen, freight conductors and passenger conductors on all lines running West from Chicago.

TRIGGER'S FAILURE
SAVES MAN'S LIFE.

Disgruntled Customer Had Gun Pointing at Nestoria Saloonkeeper's Head.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 8. [Special].— Had not the gun missed fire, George Jones, a saloonkeeper at Nestoria, would have had his head blown off yesterday by James O'Donohue. The latter, after drinking a considerable quantity of liquor, became so objectionable that Jones put him out of the saloon. O'Donohue then got a shotgun and coming back forced Jones into a corner with the gun pointed squarely at the saloonkeeper.
The few bystanders were too surprised and terrified to act, expecting to see Jones' head blown off. The trigger was snapped but it missed fire. O'Donohue was then overpowered and turned over to the police.

Rash Act of a Miner Who Had Applied for Work and Had Been Refused.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 8.—Dennis Doris, foreman at the Susquehanna Coal Company's mines at Glen Lyon, this county, was fatally shot today by a miner named J. C. Hennessy. Two shots were fired at the foreman, one hitting entering the abdomen, made application for work to Foreman Doris and the latter refused him a place. This angered Hennessy and without any warning he drew a revolver and began firing. Doris is popular and there were threats of lynching.

STRIKE AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Stoneworkers Want Operations Removed From Indiana Quarries.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Carpenters, bricklayers and stonemasons numbering 250 men engaged in the construction of the art building at the world's fair grounds went on strike because of unsuccessful negotiations with the contractors to have the stone that is used cut and dressed here instead of at Bedford, Ind. The contractors claim union men are working on the stone at Bedford and refused to grant the demand. It is feared more workmen may strike from sympathy.

New York, Nov. 5.—At 12 o'clock today, revised returns from the state indicated that Odell's plurality would be about 10,000. These figures were based on complete returns from a number of counties with partial returns from others, missing districts being estimated. The Republican plurality above the Bronx as indicated by the returns received was 132,000 against 122,000 in Greater New York for Coler. Figures from Greater New York with two election districts missing gave Coler 122,014 plurality. The vote was as follows: Manhattan and the Bronx, Coler, 190,350; Odell, 104,026; Brooklyn, Coler, 110,431; Odell, 84,228; Queens, Coler, 16,551; Odell, 18,855; Richmond, Coler, 7,205; Odell, 4,920.
For Congress nineteen Republicans and seventeen Democrats were elected, with one district in doubt. In the present Congress are twenty-two Republicans and twelve Democrats. Today's estimates are that the new state Senate would stand thirty Republicans and twenty Democrats and the Assembly eighty-nine Republicans and sixty-one Democrats.
In spite of a phenomenally large vote in New York and Kings county for Hild S. Coler, Democrat, the returns indicate the re-election of Benjamin R. Odell (Rep.) to the governorship of New York upwards of 10,000 plurality. Coler's majority in Greater New York exceeded 115,000, a surplus of 3,000 above the claim of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, but even that large vote was not sufficient to overcome the Republican majorities from up the state.
Odell's vote in the country district was lighter than two years ago, but Coler's was also lower than Stanchfield's in the same year. In New York city Coler's plurality was approximately 117,500, made up as follows: New York county, 85, 000; Kings county, 26,500; Queens, 5500; Richmond, 2800.
Oyster Bay, where President Roosevelt's country home is situated and where he voted today, was carried by Coler, his plurality being 131. Two years ago Odell's plurality was 512.

Republicans Lose Four Congressmen.

Figures from the congressional district in New York city and the Long Island counties apparently show a loss of four members of the national House for the Republicans, the heavy Coler vote having carried, according to the first returns, the first nineteen districts in the state for the Democratic candidate. All returns indicated that John Gray, Democratic candidate for judge of the court of appeals, ran somewhat ahead of his ticket.
The Democrats made gains in the state Legislature, but they were not sufficient to endanger the Republican hold on the seat in the United States Senate, now held by Thomas C. Platt.

Yellow Journalist in Congress.

Unofficial figures on the vote for congressmen in New York county made it appear that the Democrats had elected all of their candidates in the county.
Perhaps the most notable change was in the newly formed Thirteenth district, which was supposed to be Republican by from 5000 to 7000, but which gave a plurality for Francis Burton Harrison (Dem.). Mr. Harrison made an active campaign. He was supported by both Tammany Hall and the Greater New York Democracy. William R. Hurst, prospect of the Eleventh district.
Others elected to the national House from New York county are Timothy D.
Sullivan, formerly a state senator and one of the best known of Tammany leaders, and Henry M. Goldfogel, who beat Charles Adler. All told the Democrats won two Senate districts and four Assembly districts in New York county, among them the Ninth, where William S. Devere's candidate, Richard J. Butler, was elected. The Republicans lost nine assemblymen in Kings county.

Landslide in Favor of Democrats.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Since Roswell P. Flower in a Democratic landslide defeated J. S. Platt for governor in an easy victory, there has not been such an overwhelming vote for the Republican in the state as that which occurred yesterday. With the exception of Erie, Albany and Rensselaire counties every Democratic candidate swept sweeping majorities was carried out and amplified.

ILLINOIS.

Republicans Gain Seven Congressmen and Control Legislature.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—The Republicans carried Illinois by about 40,000 plurality. For state treasurer, secure plurality of about 15,000 votes in Co., and the balance in the state at large.
With Madden defeated the Republicans have eighteen congressmen in the state.
This is under the new census apportionment, by which Illinois gets twenty-five congressmen. The delegation was evenly divided when Illinois had twenty-two districts, so it will be seen the Republicans have made a gain of seven congressmen.
The Republicans have a good working majority in both branches of the general Assembly and on joint ballot.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Republicans Carry the State, but are Defeated in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—Lieut. Gov.
John L. Bates of Boston was elected governor by the Republicans, defeating William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate, by 37,479 plurality, the vote being: Bates (Rep.), 195,931; Gaston (Dem.), 158,452. The Republicans also elect ten out of fourteen congressmen.

The Legislature remains unchanged, the Senate standing, according to the late returns, 33 Republicans and 7 Democrats, and the House 162 Republicans, 75 Democrats and 3 Socialists.
Bates ran a wide ahead of Gov. Crane's vote of last year, but Gaston, who headed the Democratic ticket, polled over 25,000 more votes than did Quincy in 1901. The Republican plurality is the smallest since 1883. The Democratic gains were most in the country towns, although Mr.
Gaston ran well in most of the cities.
His plurality in Boston, however, was somewhat lower than the estimates of the party managers before the election.

DELAWARE.

Result on Legislature Indicates that There will Be Another Deadlock.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 5.—Later advices from throughout the state demonstrate that a deadlock will occur in the Legislature on the double senatorial vacancies.

The membership of the General Assembly will be: Newcastle county—Senate, four Republicans, three Democrats; House, seven Republicans, eight Democrats. Kent county—Senate, three Union Republicans, two Democrats; House, five Democrats, four Union Republicans, one tie. Sussex county—Senate, three Union Republicans, two Democrats; House, seven Union Republicans, three Democrats. Total, Senate, ten Republicans, seven Democrats; House, eighteen Republicans, sixteen Democrats, one tie.

The regular Republicans claim eight of this number who will vote against Addicks. The perceptible gains of the Democrats in Newcastle county were of-set by Union Republican gains in Kent and Sussex counties. Unless the Democrats and regular Republicans coalesce and elect one from each side to the United States Senate it is clearly apparent that the deadlock will remain unbroken. It is stated that the election of James T. Shalleross (Dem.), in the Thirteenth representative district of Newcastle county, will be contested by O.
N. Aspro, his Republican opponent.
Shalleross had but a majority.

WASHINGTON.

Republicans Carry the State and will Control the Legislature.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—The Republicans have carried the state of Washington by a majority that may run as high as 12,000, though the indications are that it will be nearer 10,000. The Democratic state committee does not claim the election of any of its state ticket, though insisting that the merger returns received justify the belief that there is a chance for Democratic control of the state Legislature. Chairman Morris of the Republican committee holds that the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot of 40.

The returns so far received seem to justify the claim of a large Republican majority in both branches of the Legislature. Owing to the fact that there is an overwhelming majority of Republicans in the list of hold-over senators this branch will not be in doubt. The House will probably be controlled by a Republican majority.
It is likely that Judge Hiram E. Hadley, nominee for justice of the supreme court, will lead the Republican state ticket. The three congressional nominees will run very close.

OHIO.

Chairman Dick Places the Republican Plurality at 100,000.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—The Republicans carried Ohio by next to their highest plurality on record. Nothing above 70, 000 had been predicted, but partial returns indicate that it will greatly exceed those figures. At the same time the Republicans on returns up to midnight made no gain in Ohio congressmen and are likely to lose one. The present Ohio delegation in Congress consists of seventeen Republicans and four Democrats and the returns show sixteen Republicans and four Democrats elected with the Twelfth district in doubt.

At midnight Chairman Dick said:
"Returns to this hour do not change our estimate of 100,000 Republican plurality. We have carried all districts now represented in Congress by Republicans, with the possible exception of the Twelfth, and in its place we have another."

With more complete returns the Republicans today say their plurality on the state ticket will approximate 100,000 and that the Ohio congressmen stand 17 Republicans to 4 Democrats, as in the last Congress. The plurities in all of the four Democratic districts were greatly reduced and in the Republican districts they offset each other. The Democrats gained the former by electing Judge Dewitt C. Badger over Cyrus Huling and lost the latter by the defeat of Dr.
James A. Norton, who has been in Congress many years.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Republican Candidate for Governor Has Estimated Plurality of 175,000.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 5.—Today for the first time in the history of the state more than 1,000,000 votes were cast in an election. Samuel W. Pennypacker (Rep.) was elected governor by an estimated plurality of 175,000 and the Republican ticket was generally successful in the various counties. The Democrats elected two and possibly three of the thirty-two congressmen. The Legislature will be more strongly Republican than ever before, with the exception of the 1897 session, and it is certain that S.
Boies Penrose will succeed himself in the United States Senate.

NEW JERSEY.

Democrats Make Gains, but Fail to Secure Control of the State.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—The Democrats made gains but failed to get control of the state. In the congressional districts the Republicans elected seven of their candidates as against six which they had under the old apportionment.
The Democrats elected three as against two under the old allotment.
The Republicans again control the Senate, but by a reduced majority.
They also control the Assembly, but by a reduced majority.

Republican State Ticket Elected with Some Doubt About Governor.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 5.—The latest returns from the interior of California and this city, where the count is progressing very slowly, indicate the election of the entire Republican state ticket. The plurality of Dr. Pardee for governor is not estimated at over 500 and the Democratic managers do not concede his election. There seems to be no doubt of the success of the other Republican nominees for state officers. The contests in the First and Second Congressional districts are close and it may require the complete returns to determine the results. The successful Republican candidates are McKittrick in the Third, Kahn in the Fourth, Needham in the Sixth, McLaughlin in the Seventh and Daniels in the Eighth. Lord (Rep.) has been beaten by William Wynn (Union Labor) in the Fifth. The Legislature will be Republican by a good working majority. San Francisco gives Lane, the Democratic candidate for governor, about 10,000 plurality, there being a Socialist candidate in the field, but this will probably be more than offset by the pluralities for Pardee in other parts of the state.

Harry New Claims Election of Nine Members of Congress.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Returns indicate that the Republicans have elected their entire state ticket by an estimated plurality of 30,000.

Republicans have elected six congressmen—those in the Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh. The Seventh district is believed to have re-elected Mr.
Overstreet, the Republican nominee.

Both state chairmen are still claiming the victory in the First district.
Harry New says: "We have carried Indiana by 30,000 majority, elected a Legislature Republican in both branches, insuring the election of a United States senator. The Republicans have elected nine and probably ten members of Congress. They have carried the First (Hemenway's) district and the Sixth, but probably a Democrat is elected in the Fourth district."

KANSAS.

Entire State Ticket and Eight Congressmen Elected by Republicans.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 5.—Kansas has gone Republican by at least 40,000 majority, the entire state ticket and all the eight congressmen are elected by the Republicans. The Republicans will have 100 members in the Legislature.

W. J. Bailey, the Republican candidate for governor, ran ahead of his ticket.

Returns from over the state late last night show that the Republican county officers were generally elected. It was the most complete victory since the days before Populism.

Morton Albaugh, Republican state chairman, said last night that practically every member of the Legislature would be Republican.

The Democratic state committee concedes the Republican claims in everything except the Legislature.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Republicans will Have 160 Majority in Legislature—To Return Gallinger.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 5.—Late returns show that Hachelder (Rep.) will be elected governor by at least 8000 plurality.
Nineteen Republicans are elected to the Senate by popular vote, with probably two or three elections thrown into the Legislature. This body will be Republican on joint ballot by nearly 100 majority, thus assuring the re-election of United States Senator Gallinger, who has no competitor.

NEBRASKA.

Bryan's State Goes Republican, but by a Narrow Margin.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Nebraska has probably gone Republican, but by a narrow margin. Mickey (Rep.) has run slightly behind his ticket, and Thompson (Unionist) has run ahead, indicating the success of the rest of the Republican state ticket by probably 10,000. Mickey's plurality can hardly exceed 4000.
The Republicans elected Burkett to Congress in the First district, Hinslaw in the Fourth and probably Kinkaid in the Sixth; the Fusionists elect Hittchcock in the Second, Robinson in the Third and probably Shallenberger in the Fifth, a Republican gain of one for the state.

Legislature is Overwhelmingly Republican—State Ticket Likewise.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 5.—The Republicans claim that Congressman E. W.
Mondell has been re-elected by a plurality of about 5500 and the entire Republican state ticket by pluralities of 4000.
They assert that the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican and credit the Democrats with three members at the most. The Democratic chairman, Hammond, had no statement to make.

MICHIGAN.

Republicans Elect Eleven Out of Twelve Candidates for Congress.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—The revised returns that are being received today show at noon the total vote for Bliss of 45,414 and Bliss of 40,000, a 15,414 giving Bliss a plurality of 5,414.
Bliss ran 11,570 behind Fred M. Warner, Republican candidate for secretary of state, according to the returns, which when completed, will lower Gov. Bliss' plurality a trifle more, it is expected.
Durand made a particularly strong run in Wayne county, which he carried by nearly 10,000. The Legislature will be made up as follows: House—Republicans, 80; Democrats, 9; one district still in doubt. Senate—Republicans 20; Democrats, 2; one district still in doubt.
In Detroit, Mayor William C. Maybury (Dem.), polled a total vote of 24,567. Dr.
J. H. Carstens, his Republican opponent, getting 21,512, a plurality for Maybury of 2995.

In the First Congressional district Alfred Lucking, the only Democratic congressman elected from Michigan, has a plurality of 3523 with eleven precincts still to be heard from at noon.

MISSOURI.

Democratic Plurality will be 20,000 and May Be Greater.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 5.—It is generally conceded from returns up to this morning that Missouri is Democratic by a safe plurality. Indication are that the Democratic plurality in the state ticket will hardly fall below 20,000 and may be much greater. Both branches of the Legislature are Democratic. The House has a sufficient majority to ensure the election of a Democrat to succeed United States Senator Vest. In St. Louis the entire Democratic city ticket is believed to have been elected.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Returns Indicate Republican Losses—Vote on Congressmen.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Returns, which are coming in slowly, indicate the certain election of H. B. Doyener (Rep.) for Congress in the First district, by slightly reduced majority compared with 1900. In the Second district John P. Mc-Gray claims his election over A. G.
Dayton (Rep.), but the Republicans do not concede it.

IOWA.

Ex-Gov. Boies Defeated by Judge Bird-sell—State Goes Republican.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 5.—The experts at Republican headquarters, from the returns at hand, place the Republican vote around 205,000 and the Democratic at about 130,000.
One hundred precincts heard from show a Republican loss from the vote of 1900 of 15 to the precinct, indicating a Republican plurality of 65,000.
In the Third district, where ex-Gov.
Boies ran against Judge Birdsell, who took the place of Speaker Henderson, Birdsell was elected.

Boxers Burn Churches and Kill Many Native Converts.

BATTLES ARE FOUGHT.

Many of the Insurgents Are Killed—Those Taken Prisoners Had Their Heads Cut Off.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 8.—Mail advices received from the Orient include official reports from Kwei Chun, ex-governor of Sze Chuan, detailing the recent Boxer outbreak there. After relating the incidents leading up to the destruction of the churches in the two districts and the murder of many native converts, the report says:
"Several regiments of troops were sent to the disturbed places and besides slay-ing 200 or 300 of the insurgents, the troops succeeded in capturing several who were brought to Chung Tu and decapitated."

Between 5000 and 6000 Boxers had assembled in Hwa Yang, Chin Tang, Hsion and Chien Tu, where they occupied the market towns and killed as many captives of the train bands as they could get hold of. At the first of the Boxers were killed and others driven back.
The force sent was obliged to return.
The report describing the attack on Chung Tu, where three regiments and 600 bannermen had been assembled for defense, says:
"The Boxers attacked the imperial troops in the outskirts of Chien Tu, and a hot battle followed, which lasted for a whole night, with a result that between 400 and 500 of the rebels were slain, about 1000 were dispersed and the rest retreated to Chin Tang Sien, where they burned the churches and put many native converts to death. When the imperial troops were dispatched to Chin Tang Sien the Boxers proceeded to Hsion and Chien Tu, where they joined forces with other insurgents. A battle was fought there, the Boxers fled to the hills at Suchuan, where they found refuge for the time being, but reinforcements of imperial troops arrived and marched against the rebels in Suchuan, in three different directions, slaying about 1400 of them and capturing thirteen alive, who were beheaded on the spot after undergoing a formal trial."

DIVINE WRATH SUGGESTED

Three Jurors Defeat Proposed Verdict in Case of Rev. Rabe and Miss Bush.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Rabe arrived late last evening and went to the morgue to view the body of her husband, Rev. W. C. Rabe, who was found dead in the arms of Miss Augusta Bush at the German Baptist Church Wednesday morning. She was compelled to pass by the dead form of Miss Bush, and horror was apparent on her face as she kept it averted from the woman's corpse.
One of the coroner's jurors says three of the panel wished to return a verdict containing the clause "that the deceased were stricken dead by Almighty God in his wrath at their sin," but the other three vetoed it.
One of the jurors says the Bible taken from the pulpit was pilloved under Miss Bush's head when the two were found dead.
Arrangements have been perfected by the church trustees for the funeral of Miss Bush, to take place this afternoon from the church in which she died. The body of the dead pastor will not be permitted to be taken into the church if the trustees can prevent. His funeral has not been arranged.

Over 5000 people viewed the remains.
Of the crowd nearly 4000 were women.

WITHOUT AUTHORITY.

Statement That President Approves of Payne Plan to Reduce Southern Representation Repudiated.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—There is no authority for compiling the name of the President with the statement published today that the administration is in favor of a change in the basis of and a reduction in the representation of the Southern states in Republican national conventions and in the House of Representatives.
Postmaster General Payne made this statement today as he left the executive office after a conference with the President.
"My position on the question of the basis of representation in Republican national conventions," continued Mr.
Payne, "is well understood. For many years I have believed that the present basis is unfair and an improper one. I believe so now, and expect always to believe so, and I hope to see that basis changed by the next national convention.
There is no power to change the basis of representation except by action of the convention itself."

RAILROADS TO BAR THE SICK.

Require Invalids to Produce Physician's Certificate When They Board Trains.

Denver, Col., Nov. 8.—Invalids must have a certificate from a physician before they can get on a train in Colorado after December 1. The certificate must say the bearer has no contagious disease.
The railroads have had a great deal of trouble with persons afflicted with contagious diseases getting on trains. Conductors are supposed to watch for such cases, but sometimes it is impossible for them to detect contagious diseases.
The idea is to have all the roads adopt the physician's certificate scheme and thereby protect passengers who desire relief from the presence of convalescents.

TRAINS IN COLLISION.

Two Men Were Killed and Seven Injured in Wreck Near Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—In a collision between a freight train and a work train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, three miles east of this city, this morning John Veatch of Indianapolis and Bud Fox of Montgomery were killed. Seven men were injured.
One of the injured, whose legs were cut off, will die.

DENMAN THOMPSON STRICKEN.

Veteran Actor Unable to Fill His Engagement in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 8.—The Boston Theater was closed without notice last night, and a rumor quickly gained credence that Denman Thompson, who was

All at once the hounds took up a new cry, and no longer gave vent to the long-drawn bay, but this had been supplanted by short, eager barks of fierce satisfaction.

Jack's face turned a trifle pale, and he shut his teeth hard together, but his eyes flashed, and his frame seemed to become firm as rock.

Either the hounds had been suffered to go free, or else they had slipped the leash; at any rate they were untrammelled by masters, and were racing along after the fugitives, rapidly coming up with them.

He had had much experience with bloodhounds in the South, and knew there was but one remedy for it. Perhaps after all it would be for the best, for the hounds once out of the way, their pursuers would have no means of finding out where they had gone, not being skilled in following a trail, yet it was far from a pleasant task the young man had before him.

Nora speedily comprehended the truth, for she saw that something had occurred to give her lover a start, and soon recognized the difference in the sounds back of them.

Nearer and nearer came the dread sounds, and it was evident that the hounds, knowing they were fast overtaking the fugitives, were anxious for the carnal of blood.

At last the ferocious hounds were so near that their sharp barks seemed to fill the wood full of echoes, and Jack could even hear them dashing through the undergrowth.

The time for action had come. Quickly he put Nora among the lower branches of a tree, and took up his station beside it. Not a second too soon was this done, for out from the bushes sprang an enormous dun-colored hound.

The beast crouched at sight of him, and uttered a low, terribly fierce growl. Even in the moonlight it could be seen that the hound was a ferocious brute, black about the muzzle, and with two rows of suggestive white teeth showing behind as he curled his lips.

His blazing eyes were fastened upon Jack, and it was evident that, like a panther, he was crouching in order to make a fatal leap. Knowing the nature of the brutes so well, the young man was well aware of the fact that the time for action had come, and that if he delayed now all might indeed be lost.

Taking a keen aim, he fired. There was a sharp yell, and, as the little cloud of white smoke was swept away by the wind, the hound was seen writhing in the agonies of death.

The bullet had done its work. Again the hammer was raised, and just in time, for once more the bushes were parted, and the form of another dog sprang into view.

Like the first one, at sight of the foe he came to a sudden halt, and, crouching for a spring, gnashed his teeth in fury.

That pause, short though it was, proved fatal to the terrible hound.

Again Jack's weapon sounded. His nerves were of steel, and nothing could have exceeded his coolness, for he realized all there was at stake.

When a few seconds later this little cloud of smoke was blown aside it revealed the second hound lying across the body of the first, and yet a third terrible animal in the act of flying through the bushes.

Once more the bloody tragedy had to be repeated, but this time, for some cause or other, he failed to deal out a death shot, and, wounded as the brute was, it made the leap.

Even while the animal was passing through midair the young man fired again, and when the animal struck it was with in two feet of him, so that he actually poured his third charge down the animal's red throat as it distended its jaws ready to seize upon him.

That was enough. Flesh and blood could stand no more, and the terrible looking animal sank back even at its feet, dead.

Leaving the dead hounds where they lay, the two once more hastened on, Jack with his arm thrown protectively around his companion. His love for her was of that deep, chivalrous nature that worships its object.

Once they heard a chorus of savage cries, and knew that their pursuers had discovered the dead hounds, but after that all was wrapped in the most impenetrable silence. They were safe.

There still remained the mission to which both Jack and she were ready to devote their lives, and after this terrible experience at the hands of Doctor Grim it may be readily imagined that they were even more earnest in their work than ever before.

Jack and Nora Warner finally reached the house they had been aiming for. Here he had formed his arrangements before going to the asylum, and his gold had made staunch friends of the cottager and his old crone of a wife.

They were warmly welcomed, as soon as the old pair could get up and dress, and Nora was given an extra room the chance to have, while Jack, having reloaded the empty chambers of his revolver, laid down in the main room.

When morning came they partook of a hearty breakfast and then bade adieu to the old couple. Their hearts were now fired with a desire for vengeance, and Jack wished to see the fury of an outraged heaven descend upon the man who stood between him and happiness—a veritable dog in the manger, as it were—the husband of Nora Warner.

CHAPTER XXIII.

When Roger Darrel tore himself away from the presence of the girl in whom his whole life was wrapped up, he did so in the most wretched state of mind imaginable for one who had even so lately looked forward to happiness.

When he had gone some little distance Roger came to a pause. His thoughts were in a perfect whirl, and he knew full well that unless he restored order out of this chaos he was in danger of going insane; so he shut his teeth hard together and gradually collected his thoughts.

She in whom his whole being was wrapped up, and against whom he would never have believed the slightest whisper of reproach—this girl had accused him of the most terrible crimes in the calendar, and in a manner that told all too plainly that she had allowed her mind to dwell upon and believe them, instead of coming to him with the story in the beginning.

"And that woman's love," he said to himself, bitterly, "the love that poets rave about, the love that will endure all things? Out upon it for something unreal, something that does not exist. As for me, give me the love of a good man, as strong and steadfast as a rock, and as lasting as the hills. He must be daring, indeed, who would venture to impeach the honor or integrity of the woman whom he loves. Compare her love and mine. At the bare mention of suspicions, which I could have strangled with the greatest ease had she but come to me frankly with them, this girl finds her soul filled with horror; love flies from her heart, leaving it a graveyard, and to my face she tells me that she has found me out, that I am a wretch who has imprisoned his wife in a mad house, and no longer worthy of her love."

The love of this man was something for the common herd to emulate. In his heart the great powers, pride and love, battled with a force sufficient to wreck a common nature, but with him the battle was long and almost without any definite result, although pride to a certain degree had trampled on and throttled love.

After a time he became calm, so calm, in fact, that it was easy to see he had worn himself out, and that this new state of affairs was but the natural reaction of the tempest that had well nigh overwhelmed him but a short time before.

It was while he was in this mood that he suddenly started, and then became as immovable as the tree against which he had been leaning, his eyes glued upon the figure of a man.

This was Captain Grant. He was coming from the direction of the spot where Roger had left Carol—coming with a plain look of triumph upon his face that made a cold chill run through the other's frame to loom upon.

What did it mean? Had he been more successful with his wooing this time? Roger gritted his teeth with anger, and yet remained motionless. Much cause as he had to hate Captain Grant, if he was to be Carol's accepted lover he would not lay a hand on him for the world.

Had the soldier but turned his head, he could not have failed to see him standing there, with that look of pain upon his face, but he was evidently too much engrossed in his thoughts, and gave no heed to surrounding objects.

When Captain Grant was in front of him, and not over twenty feet away, Roger gave a sudden start, as though an arrow had pierced his heart, a strange look flashed over his face, and his eyes were glued upon the soldier with a new interest.

He had noticed a striking peculiarity in the walk of the other, a strange little limp which might not attract the attention of one in a hundred, and which on most occasions the Captain managed to conceal.

At the present time, however, his thoughts being far from the subject in hand, he unconsciously allowed himself to fall into the old habit, and this betrayed him.

Roger had only come face to face with the Captain on one or two occasions, and then he had been heated by anger and indignation, so that he failed to recognize anything familiar in the cool gleam of the soldier's eyes, or the malicious look that shot from them.

Had he been in his right mind he would have had his suspicions excited at the start, which would have resulted in unmasking the scheming villain, but Providence, which had allowed things to go on from bad to worse, had now decided to draw in the net, let who would be caught in the meshes.

That little halt in his walk betrayed the Captain, just as trifles have many a time betrayed the most profound secrets. Like a bolt of lightning there flashed through the mind of the young man who this impostor, this plotter, this arch-fiend was, and at the bare thought of Carol marrying him, he shuddered.

Then anger came into his heart, the anger of an upright man who has been shamefully imposed upon himself, and has also seen one whom he loves deceived.

All this while Captain Grant had been walking slowly along, and had now reached a point almost directly in front of where Roger stood, still he did not see the motionless form that leaned against the tree.

He was wrapped up in his own thoughts, and, believing himself to be quite alone, he uttered his varying ideas aloud, chuckling the while in a manner that would have well become the arch villain in a drama.

"There is no other way of looking at it; you are in luck, my boy. The fates favor you, bless them. She has quarrelled with Roger and sent him from her, believing that he is a villain of the deep; dye, with half a dozen wives in the mad house, and one in every country where he has traveled, while I come in for the spoils. Oh, it is most glorious, most glorious, and, coming to a halt, the Captain gave vent to his suppressed emotions by kicking thoughtfully at some object on the ground.

"Well, let me see," he went on. "What was I thinking about before? The first thing to do is to get Carol back to her mad house, and one in every country where he has traveled, while I come in for the spoils. Oh, it is most glorious, most glorious, and, coming to a halt, the Captain gave vent to his suppressed emotions by kicking thoughtfully at some object on the ground.

"Well, let me see," he went on. "What was I thinking about before? The first thing to do is to get Carol back to her mad house, and one in every country where he has traveled, while I come in for the spoils. Oh, it is most glorious, most glorious, and, coming to a halt, the Captain gave vent to his suppressed emotions by kicking thoughtfully at some object on the ground.

"Do!" thundered the other, advancing and facing him; "I mean to expose you, villain. Where have my eyes been that I knew you not? The game is up, Cast of your disguise, secondly, and face the man you have wronged. You would put your intrigues upon me, but I denounce them. You are my cousin Roger Darrel."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"You are my cousin, Roger Darrel?" As those words fell from the lips of the young man, the one who had so long been known as Captain Grant started back, both amazed and alarmed.

Feeling safe in the disguise he had assumed, he had been ready to defy Roger in his teeth, but the very fact that his identity had in some marvelous manner been discovered was a bad omen, and presaged disaster.

It was indeed a dramatic sight to see the positions of those two men, Roger with his body advanced, one hand raised threateningly, and his face full of the fires of indignation and anger, while the Captain had started back, holding out his hands as though involuntarily warding off the other's attack, and his face full of consternation. The Captain found his tongue first.

"Well," said he, grating the words out between his teeth, "you have said enough. It would be foolish to deny the truth to you, for your eyes have read well. I am your cousin Roger Darrel, the man you hate with heart and soul. Come, what will you do about it?"

"Just as I said before—expose, denounce you for the villain that you are. A light has been dawning upon me of late, and I see the clear sky once more. To you I owe all the suffering of my life. Not content with the past, whereby you separated me so long from my father, you must needs come back and finish the work; but I have found you out. Oh, would that I had the means of punishing you mentally, here, as I might bodily. If I chose, would I not wring tears of blood from you?—not for your action in the past, but because of your persecution of the woman I love. Fool wretch! you who have ruined many an innocent life, the vengeance of an outraged heaven shall soon fall upon and crush you. Oh, that I could open heaven's floodgates of wrath, and pour upon your sinful head at once all the judgments laid up in store for you. They would sink you deeper than if a millstone were hanged about your neck. Villain, you are unmasked; henceforward you are powerless to harm any one, and, sooner than you suspect, the iron hands of the law will close upon your throat with a death grip and choke your accursed life out, even as I could do now."

In his excitement Roger took a step forward, as though about to carry his words into execution, his eyes blazing, his hands extended, and the other started back with a cry, his face almost glowing black.

"Back! back! or your death be upon your own head. I am always prepared for such madmen as you."

A pistol flashed in the sunlight, and Roger, deeming discretion the better part of valor, and besides, having no real intention of doing the other bodily injury, came to a pause.

"I see you are always ready for foes, and I cannot blame you, seeing the number of enemies you have made. Go your way, but remember, we shall meet again. Your downfall is near at hand, wretch. Angels will rejoice in your fall, and the spirits of your poor victims exult."

"Cease, or you will goad me to desperation," cried the other, his hand trembling, and his face changing to a marble whiteness as the intensity of his emotions drove the blood back to his heart. "I hate you as man never hated man before. You have stood in my way all my life in everything I desired. What is to keep my finger from pressing the trigger now, and sending you to your long account? Are you prepared to die, Roger Darrel?"

He meant every word he uttered, but the other only laughed carelessly. "Put up your pistol, man; you would not dare to use it. Shall I tell you why? Because your hand trembles, and you would fail to accomplish your end. Then I would spring upon you, and with these hands rend you in pieces. You realize that I speak the truth; your arm falls at your side. You have met your master. Now fire if you dare, sir."

The Captain could not have done so, try as he would. It seemed as though his arms were shackled with bands of iron, and, try as he might, he was unable to break loose from them. As Roger had truly said, he was in the presence of his master.

A Great Japanese Artist.

Kiyosai, the Japanese painter, is known all over his native land. Moritome Mempo tells in his book on Japan of a visit to the greatest genius of the mikado's kingdom.

I arrived at my host's early in the morning, for I was to have a whole day with him. The old man was grave and very dignified in bearing, and I found it difficult to realize that this was the painter of whom I had heard so much. He was sitting on the floor, and his assistant was busy stretching silk and preparing colors.

He put many questions about English art. He spoke of the effect made on him by some English pictures.

"They all look very much alike to me. I hear that in England they say that Japanese pictures all look alike to them. Why is this?"

Then it occurred to Mr. Mempo that our pictures are much less individual than Japanese pictures, that in our galleries the paintings all have the same pigments, the same lights, the same shading. It may help to shake us out of our attitude of superiority to find that a Japanese painter, the great genius of a nation whose pictures we call weak, insipid, out of perspective, brings a similar charge against our more complex pictures.

Entertaining.

"Was it an entertaining affair?"

"Very. First a man got up and sang, 'Are There Any More at Home Like You?' and then a lady arose and recited 'We Are Seven.'"

FARMS AND FARMERS

Bracing a Picket Fence.

The illustration shows a method of bracing a sagging fence of any kind that has a top rail. Take two boards six or eight inches wide and of a thickness according to the weight of the fence, cross them at the top as shown and fasten together with heavy wire nails.

Each piece may be notched so that the notch will come under the top rail on either side, or the boards may be spiked to the top rail on either side. Fasten these boards at the bottom as shown in the cut, brace them by driving strong stakes in the ground and nail the boards to the stakes. To give additional strength the lower bar of the supporting frame may be spiked to the bottom rail of the fence. This support is readily made, and if fastened to the fence as directed will hold it in place securely even under the pressure of heavy winds.

Weeds in Grass Land.

It would astound many farmers to make an investigation of the number of weed plants that are to be found in grass lands, and even in meadows that are supposed to be in a high state of cultivation. They are more conspicuous in the pastures, because our most common weeds will grow on land where the cultivated grass makes but little growth. The daisy, the rag weed, mints and others are often to be found by the hundred on a single square foot in the pasture, while in spots the thistle, milkweed and orange hawkweed have taken almost complete possession.

But there are many in the richly manured mowing, where the grasses grow so much faster and ranker as to hide them until the hay is taken off. Too close pasturing is in some cases responsible for these weeds. Some of these larger perennials must be dug out, root and all, before they can make seed, or cut down so often that they will perish because of a lack of leaf growth.

In some cases plowing, manuring and reseeding with clean seeds seems to be the only remedy, and it is not always easy to get grass seed free from the seeds of weeds, and a course of three years in cultivation, killing every weed in the field or around its borders, may be the only way to reduce their number.—New England Homestead.

Keep Buildings Painted.

The importance of keeping farm buildings well painted is apparently not appreciated as it should be. In traveling about the country great carelessness in this respect is noticeable on every hand. Neat-looking houses, barns and other buildings denote thrift and good management, while dilapidated, weather-worn structures give the place an air of neglect or poverty, according to the degree of decay. If a farmer cares nothing for looks, he should keep his buildings well painted, because it is good business to do so. Good paint in convenient form for use is now put up and sold at reasonable prices. Any one with sufficient energy to rub the paint well into weather checks, and interest enough in his work to keep the paint thin, can do a good job of painting. A thoroughly good brush is necessary; this is a sure case of the best being the cheapest, as it will not only enable a man to do more and better work, but a good brush will last longer than a cheap one. The fall is the best time to do outside painting, as it then has all winter in which to harden slowly—whereas, paint put on in spring or summer is sometimes injured with the hot sun while it is fresh and soft.—Agricultural Epitome.

Breeds of Cattle.

To summarize the matter of breeds—the Jerseys produce a large yield of rich milk and are good rustlers, but of very little value for beef; the Ayrshires are good milk producers, will thrive on a poorer pasture than most others, and are easily fattened when wanted for beef; the Holstein-Friesians produce an immense yield of milk which is not rich, and are easily made into good beef, but require the best of care and an abundance of rich and succulent food; the Devons produce a moderate amount of rich milk and are quickly made into good beef; the "milking strains" of Shorthorns produce a good yield of milk which is of good quality, and can be turned into excellent beef at any time, but are not good rustlers and need the best of pastures to do well. Probably three-fourths of the pure-blooded cows now in the Gulf States are Jerseys.—Dairying in the South.

Succulent Feed for Hogs.

Where it is not practical to soak grain for hogs the animals can be kept in a thrifty condition by furnishing a succulent feed like corn silage or roots of some kind. When green feed is not available, something of this sort is absolutely necessary for best results. Of course, hogs will live and do fairly well on corn alone, but are not always profitable unless given some other kind of feed.

Fall Plowing.

Fall plowing should always be deeper than spring plowing, because the newer soil brought to the surface in the fall becomes disintegrated by the agency of frost and is thereby better prepared for crop production. Some prefer to plow twice, once just as soon as possible after harvest and once in October or November. In this case the first plowing is shallow and the second somewhat deeper. In the great majority of instances early plowing of stubble is most suitable in the preparation of a soil for the following year, while a few prefer late fall plowing in preparing a soil for corn. One advantage of getting a soil plowed in the fall is that the spring crop may be put in much earlier, as the soil dries out much more quickly. It is seldom profitable to burn stubble, as most of our soils are in need of humus. It is not always practicable to plow rolling lands in the fall, as they are much more apt to wash.—Iowa Homestead.

Testing Wheat Varieties.

The Ohio Experiment Station during the past ten years has tested thirty-four differently named varieties of wheat. The Penitence Velvet Chaff is used as a standard by which to test the yield, and every third plot is sown with that, and as the yield rises above or falls below that, the productiveness and the value are estimated. During the ten years test the Mealy has made the best showing, having had an average yield of 4½ bushels per acre greater than the Velvet Chaff. The Poole, Red Hussin and Harvest King are decided to be the same variety, and they have ranged from 3.3 to 3½ bushels better than the Velvet Chaff, the Gypsy 3½ bushels better, and Early Ripe 3½ bushels better than Velvet Chaff. Yet they class the Poole next to the Mealy, perhaps because it has been longer tested, or because it stands up better than the Gypsy or Early Ripe.—American Cultivator.

A Brooder Attachment.

The brooder chicks can be let upon the ground and yet be protected from the cold winds by the attachment shown. A box without top or bottom is hooked to the side of the brooder, an opening being cut in the side where the door of the brooder comes. The top of the attachment is covered with coarse cotton cloth, or a sash may be used. The cloth lets in fresh air and the sun's rays, but protects the chicks from the cold winds.

Things that Will Pay. If there is any one thing that will help dairymen succeed more than any other, it is a constant use of scales and the Babcock test on our farms. It will pay any farmer to keep an accurate record of the milk produced by each cow.

Treatment for Mango. Mange is caused by a small parasite (insect). Rub once a day with carbolic acid, half ounce; oil of tar, four ounces; sulphur, four ounces; cottonseed oil, one quart. Wash with tar soap after three or four days.

Farm Notes.

If the animals are allowed to run down in flesh it will be a loss to the farmer, as he is then compelled to restore them to their original condition before he makes a gain. At the same time there is a waste of as many days as the animals are below their normal condition, which is lost time that can never be regained.

Select some plot of ground, or part of a field, for experimental purposes. Fix your plan, and end the year with some positive information that you have gleaned from your year's labor. Unless it is well planned at the start, and data fully kept, it ends only in opinions that are largely guesses, and little more is known than at first.

Farmers are not disposed at the present day to cure as much bacon as formerly. Small carcasses are being preferred, and the farmers are beginning to kill a pig as required for use, instead of salting down large quantities of pork late in the fall. By so doing they have more fresh meat and of better quality than that from the pork barrel that was packed months before.

Many of the pasture fields are grazed too close to the ground. When a herd of cows have free access to pasture they really cut the grass down many times, and much closer than is usually done with the mower. No plants will thrive if not given an opportunity to make growth, and the grass on some pastures is killed by continually checking the growth, while the feet of the animals greatly damage the grass, especially the smaller, the supply the more trampling by the stock.

Philippine Suckers.

An army officer returned from duty in the Philippines, telling recently of the many pests both insect and reptile, which annoyed the American soldiers stationed there, dwelt especially on a rather monstrous land leech that clings to the limbs of soldiers on the hillsides and gnaws upon the passers by with lightning rapidity, proceeding immediately to its business—bloodsucking. The officers dreaded the presence of these creatures vastly more than they did the Filipinos, and on many occasions when "hiking" after a band of the little brown men the company would be demoralized by a number of these creepy-looking things dropping from the overhead trees on the necks or other exposed parts of the men. In appearance these blood-sucking vampires resembled much the common leech that is familiar to the American small boy, who has met the creature often in his favorite "swimming hole," but, unlike his sluggish, water-inhabiting contemporary, the monstrous Philippine leech is a land dweller, making his abode on the under side of young leaves in the higher forest growths.—Detroit Free Press.

Her Present Family.

A school teacher visiting in a nearby city was a guest at a party the other day, and a lady to whom she had been just introduced did not catch the "Miss" and, supposing she was married, asked: "How many children did you say you have?" "Well, only forty now," was the reply that nearly staggered the questioner.

Scores the Americans.

Marie Corelli, the authoress, has had her say regarding the American public and to say that her remarks are anything but complimentary is drawing it extremely mild. Marie says in substance that we are a lot of half-baked savages, so hungry after the almighty dollar that we don't know the first principle of manners or culture. That our millionaires are especially vulgar in their tastes and habits and that they know nothing but the desire to accumulate money in large and irregular chunks and gobs. She expresses it in a great deal worse language than this, but this is about what she means.

It seems that Marie is only human, however, in spite of any effort of hers to make us think to the contrary. Among the subjects she has lately been harping on in London is the fact that the society people there are so anxious to have their names appear in print, intimating that it was not the thing for a person of breeding to desire their name in the papers. It seems that there was a gathering in London recently at which Marie appeared, and all of the guests were named except Marie. She immediately kicked up a row and wanted them to "show her" why her name had not been included. It was explained to her that since she objected so strenuously to other people having their name printed, it was supposed that she did not care to have her name appear on an occasion of this sort. Of course she had nothing to say about the matter any further; in fact there was nothing to say, but it showed how little consistency there is in some of these people who pose as being just about the proper thing.

Government Ownership.

There is a growing sentiment among the American people that the government should own the telegraph systems of the country at the present time and later on assume control of the railroads. People are not saying much about the matter, but if a vote were taken without any politics being introduced it would be a surprise to many to find the number that favor the scheme. There are many arguments against government ownership of these two great industries, but the one thing that shows what might be done in that line is the mail service as it now exists in the United States. Considering the territory that is covered and the service furnished the public, we have the cheapest and most efficient mail service in the world. The efficiency of the mail service has greatly increased since the system was placed under the jurisdiction of the civil service commission, and the employees chosen and promoted by virtue of their merit rather than political pull and unless some president yet to come takes it out of the hands of this commission, there is no reason why it should not continue to improve. In spite of the fact that we have the cheapest postage in the world and that thousands of tons of mail matter are carried every year free of charge, the system is more than self supporting and for several years past there has been an agitation to reduce the postage on first class matter and there is no doubt but what in time this will be done. If these results can be accomplished in the mail service, why not equally favorable things be done with the railways and telegraph. The possibilities are there and there is no reason to doubt the results. It might be claimed that the government assuming control of the railroads would be along the line of socialism, and not to be favored. The maintenance of our telephone, electric light and water systems on the co-operative plan is as near socialism as it is possible to get, but our people realize that they are good things and with very few exceptions a man cannot be found who has a word to say against them.

Beware of Them.

It recently developed that there has been a party of so-called quack doctors claiming their home office to be at Chicago, working the rural districts in this vicinity very extensively and doing a land office business in the towns of Dale, Horton, Caledonia, and Maple Creek, says the New London Press.

Their methods of working were for a young man acting as an advance agent to call at a farmer's residence and make inquiries as to members of the family who were ill or needed medical attendance, also making inquiries as to neighboring families, and should there be any invalids, it was his duty to ascertain the nature and the symptoms of the disease. He was a day or two later followed by "the doctor" who on his arrival knew all about the invalid and was ready to treat any and all cases, it made no difference of what nature, his only requirements being that the patient or member of the family give their note for a certain amount which according to the doctor's tell was not to be paid unless a cure was effected and he (the doctor) to furnish the medicine and treatment for a stipulated time.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "I hope it doesn't snow," said Larry P. Ward of Batcock, Wis., to Clark Randolph as he registered at the Schlitz hotel yesterday. "I am just in the midst of a rattling good business and I do not want the run broken. In the last sixty days I have sold 6,000 acres of pasture land in Wood county at prices ranging from $12 to $16 an acre, and better pastures cannot be found in this state. There are fortunes awaiting young men in the northern portion of this state if they will only go after them. With little capital a man can purchase a large tract of land and in a few years can soon place it on the market at a considerable advance. I would advise any young man to make an investment. I shall never regret mine. Politics? Well, I haven't much to say, only this: Even if the people of the state did turn Mayor Rose down for governor, in my opinion he did more to advertise the state than any man in it. This is why I make the assertion. During the campaign a man from New Orleans heard Mayor Rose speak in this state. The mayor told of the prosperous condition existing in the north, and after hearing the speech the man purchased a half section in Wood county. I benefited by the transaction, of course, but I would think the same had anybody else made the sale. Mayor Rose merely advertised the country and I consummated the deal."

We are pained to see that so broad-minded a man as Senator Hoar feels that party exigencies constrain him to assert that the "bad times of '93 were brought on by President Cleveland." We are not surprised when lesser men of tougher political consciences, and who also know better, repeat this old Morgan of the campaign of '94, but we did not expect it of the old Massachusetts senator. Would he say that the hard times of '73 were brought on by President Grant, or that the hard times of '84 were caused by Arthur, or that the panic of '90 by Harrison? Is the logic of coincidence not just as applicable to present conditions and can it not be as accurately said that the present monetary stringency was brought on by President Roosevelt? This is another of those two edged arguments which are quite as apt to cut those who use them as those on whom they are used. Besides they presuppose an ignorance on the part of those to whom they are addressed that is not complimentary to them.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Housekeepers in some sections of the country who have become discouraged over the servant girl problem have been trying the services of boys to make up the deficiency of female help and have found the experiment a success so far as it has gone. As a consequence the employment bureaus have received numerous applications for boys for domestic and have been unable to fill the demand. It certainly begins to look as if the male portion of this earth was up against the real thing sure enough. Funny papers have been picturing the man staying at home attending to the household duties while the women folks lighted a cigar and strolled out for an evening with "the girls" and it begins to appear as if they had probably called the turn properly. It may be some time before this stage is reached, but it is apparently coming.

Local members of the Modern Woodmen order will go slow on the initiation of new candidates and will handle them with gloved hands as the result of the decision of a Michigan state court which holds the order liable for injuries that may be suffered by members in the initiation. The decision was handed down last week and an award of $2,500 was made in a suit for $5,000. The case was instituted by a widow whose husband was injured in the rough handling given him by members in a Modern Woodmen lodge at Coopersville, Mich., where he was accepted into the order. Although the death was not charged directly to the injuries of the initiation it was claimed that it was hastened thereby. The decision is interesting to Woodmen and other fraternal organizations.

Headache.

"It ought to be universally recognized that eye-strain is the common cause of headache—it may be constant or intermittent, slight or severe, felt only on the use of the eyes. Such headaches are generally felt in the frontal, temporal or occipital regions.

Read the above again and remember that eye-strain is relieved by glasses properly fitted. I am in every way equipped for scientifically testing the eyes and determining the right glasses. In every case absolute satisfaction is guaranteed.

The deer season in the state of Wisconsin opened at midnight on Monday and up to that time six deaths had been reported in the state of persons who had been out hunting before the opening of the season.
State Game Warden Overbeck reports that the number of licenses issued to hunters this year will aggregate 60,000, or nearly double that of last season. If the fatalities continue throughout the season, as they started before the opening of the season, there is no doubt that Wisconsin will make a record that she may feel proud of.

Work on the new high school has

and the workmen are engaged in building the trusses for the roof, which will be put in place as soon as the brick work is finished. The stone cutters have also been at work for some time past finishing the work on the stone that had been placed in position in the building.

The people in this section expected to experience a regular old time winter on Sunday and Monday, as the weather reports stated that a cold wave was headed this way carrying with it zero weather or something worse. It was a trifle sharp on Monday morning but was nothing to complain of for the middle of November.
They got the cold up in British America, however, where the land agents have been telling us that the cattle can take care of themselves all winter, and all the farmer has to do is to take up a claim of 160 acres and let nature do the rest.

The citizens of Wausau have been having a great deal of trouble with their water supply. The water has been off color and has a very disagreeable odor. The matter has been investigated by a scientist and he has stated that the trouble is caused by oxide of iron in the water. This caused a vegetable growth which dis-colors the water and causes it to smell bad and makes it anything but pleasant for drinking purposes. The only remedy suggested is the use of filters, which it is claimed will take out the oxide and eventually clear the pipes of the vegetable growth and the water will then be all right again. The installation of a system of filters for a city the size of Wausau is quite a proposition and will cost some money, and as is usual in such cases will probably give very poor satisfaction after installed.

It is apparent that nothing short of a panic will make Wisconsin a Democratic state. As long as crops are abundant and the commerce of the country is in a prosperous condition the Republican party can carry Wisconsin without effort. The state administration may be rotten to the core; individual members of the legislature may sell every vote they are permitted to cast; outside corporations may come into Wisconsin and buy the nomination of every man on the state ticket, yet withal the Republican party will sweep the state.
Until the impression is removed from the minds of thousands of indifferent voters that a period of Republican rule and an era of prosperity are synonymous any effort to stem the tide will be in vain. What's the use?

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—From returns received up to 4 o'clock this afternoon the plurality of Gov. La Follette is estimated at over 40,000, when all of the returns are in. The returns have come in very slowly on account of the great number of split tickets.

In many parts of the state the election inspectors have not sent in their reports, as they have not finished counting the ballots.

The governor carried Dane, his home county, in which there was so much active opposition to him. Fifty-one out of fifty-five precincts gave the governor a plurality of about 500. This will be increased, as the other four precincts are strongly Republican.

Constitutional Amendments Carry.

It was stated by the Republican state central committee at noon today that from returns thus far received it would seem that all of the amendments to the constitution had carried by a slight majority. Definite reports have not been received.

Reports received from county seats throughout the state say that the returns, while not complete, show that the governor carried the state by about 45,000.

Milwaukee County.

The entire Republican county ticket in Milwaukee was elected yesterday. Mayor Rose lost heavily in his own stronghold. Although it was believed by many unprejudiced men before the election that Rose would carry the city by 4000 and the county by 2500, the result showed that La Follette carried the county by 4507. Ald. George Tauer, candidate for county treasurer, led the ticket by a plurality of 7205. Testimony and the lowest plurality, 4334.

Theodore Olsen and W. H. Stafford were elected. Mr. Olsen being given the office for the first time after years of effort. Rose's particular friend Donovan was defeated and Henry Smith may remain in the common council to serve out his term as alderman of the Sixth ward.

A careful canvass of the returns in respect to the vote for congressmen in the Fourth district shows that Theodore Olsen's plurality will be from 1750 to 2000.

Mr. Stafford ran ahead of his ticket in many places. His plurality in Waukesha county is 628.

The Social Democratic vote showed an increase of 2362 over that cast by that party last spring, the total vote being 10,815. The party leaders expected to poll 12,000 or 14,000 at least in this county.

Results giving the state ticket a good majority and electing the entire Republican county ticket, Milwaukee county returned three Republican state senators and nine out of sixteen state representatives.

C. C. Rogers in the Fifth district won out by 223 plurality; Rip Runkema in the Sixth by 1441; and Barney A. Eaton of the Seventh was re-elected with but 207 to spare.

Chairman Bruce of the Democratic county committee gave up the fight early in the evening. At 9 o'clock he practically conceded the county, although in guarded terms. Max Hotel, candidate for county treasurer, conceded a Republican victory at that hour and went home. At 10:20 Chairman Bruce still claimed the city, but said: "I throw up my hands as to the county."

OLD HOMESTEAD BURNS.

Historic Kimball Residence Consumed by Flames.

KENOSHA'S LAND MARK.

Loss on the House is Estimated at $10,000 with $5500 Insurance.—Built in 1837.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 5.—The historic Kimball homestead, the oldest residence in Kenosha, and one of the oldest in Southern Wisconsin, was destroyed by fire here yesterday afternoon, entailing a loss of $10,000 on the building alone. With the burning of the famous house many priceless pieces of furniture, paintings, silver and china, together with the Kimball library, were damaged. These things were the heirlooms of the Kimball family, and had been in the old house since it was built in 1837.

The fire originated through some defect in the furnace.

The ruined house was one of the landmarks of Southport. When Julius H. Kimball came to this city in 1836 he selected a spot, now the center of the city, and on it built the old Kimball homestead. Here the Kimballs have lived ever since, and stored away in the rooms of the house were furniture and heirlooms of the family dating back for centuries. It is claimed that the Kimball collection of relics was the largest and most complete in the state outside that in the hands of the State Historical Society.

The house was rebuilt a year ago at a cost of $4000, but the old portion, which in the early history of Kenosha was known as "Kimball mansion," was left unimpaired.

An insurance of $5500 partially covers the loss.

Almost a Miracle.
Case No. 49,763. Mrs. M. Isted, of 1207 Strand Street, Galveston, Tex., who is proprietor of a boarding house at that address, numbering among her boarders a dozen medical students, says: "I caught cold during the flood of September, 1900, and it settled in my kidneys. Despite the fact that I tried all kinds of medicine and was under the care of physicians, the excruciating twinges and dull aching across the small of my back refused to be re, and trouble with the kidney sections began to set in. From then, ordinary Anglo-Saxon fails to describe the annoyance and suffering I endured. The fearful pain through my body, loss of appetite, loss of sleep, consequent loss of energy, and, finally, an indication of complete dissolution compelled me, from sheer agony and pain, to either lie on the floor and scream, or forced me into spasms. On such occasions my husband called in a physician, whose morphine treatment relieved me temporarily. I grew weaker and thinner, and so run down physically that nothing was left but skin and bone. All my friends, acquaintances and neighbors knew about my critical condition, and on one occasion I was reported dead and they came to see my corpse. At last the doctors attending me held a consultation and agreed that if I did not undergo an operation I could not live. Preparations were made, a room selected at the city hospital, and they even went so far as to have the carriage brought to the door to carry me there. I don't know why, but something told me not to go, and I absolutely refused. Now I want the readers to grasp every word of the following: A friend of ours, a Mr. McGamdu, knowing that my kidneys were the real cause of the entire trouble, brought a box of Doan's Kidney Pills to the house, and requested me to give them a trial. I had taken so much medicine that I was more than discouraged, and had little, if any, faith in any preparation. However, I reasoned if they did not do me good they could not possibly make me worse, so I began the treatment. After the third dose, I felt something dart across me like a flash of lightning, and from that moment I began to improve. The pain in my back and kidneys positively disappeared, the kidney secretions became free and natural. At present I rest and sleep well, my appetite is good, my weight has increased from 118 to 155 pounds, and my flesh is firm and solid. My friends actually marvel at the change in my appearance. Words cannot express my own feelings. I am not putting it too strongly when I say I have been raised from the dead. I am satisfied that had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills, taken when they were, I would have been either lying in the Lake View Cemetery, or an invalid for the balance of my life. I will be only too pleased to give minute particulars of my case to any one calling on me, not, of course, out of idle curiosity, but if they really have kidney complaint and want to know what course to pursue to get relief."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Isted will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents per box.

Plants that Cough.
Man has not a monopoly of coughing. Before there was a vertebrate on the earth, while man was in process of evolution through the vegetable world, Elaeagnus—a tree that is what botanists call him, while we know him as "the coughing bean"—coughed, and blew dust out of his lungs. Recently botanists have been giving special attention to this bean, and tell interesting things about it. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries, and objects most emphatically to dust. When dust settles on the branching pores in the leaves of the plant and chokes them a great accumulation is made, and when it gets sufficient pressure there comes an explosion with a sound exactly like coughing and the dust is blown from its lodgment. And, more strange still, the plant gets red in the face through the effect.—London Express.

A Surprised Physician.
A dying patient recovered through the interposition of a humble German. Chicago, Nov. 15.
Some weeks ago Dr. G., a very reputable and widely known physician, living on C street, was called to attend a very complicated case of Rheumatism. Upon arriving at the house he found a man about forty years of age, lying in a prostrated and serious condition, with his whole frame dangerously affected with the painful disease. He prescribed for the patient, but the man continued to grow worse, and on Sunday evening he was found to be in a very alarming condition. The knees and elbows and larger joints were greatly inflamed, and could not be moved. It was only with extreme difficulty that the patient could be turned in bed, with the aid of three or four persons. The weight of the clothing was so painful that means had to be adopted to keep it from the patient's body. The doctor saw that his assistance would be of no avail, and left the house, the members of the family following him to the door, weeping. Almost immediately the grief-stricken ones were addressed by a humble German. He had heard of the despair of the family, and now asked them to try his remedy, and accordingly brought forth a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. The poor wife applied this remedy. The first application eased the patient very much, and after a few hours they used it again, and, wonder of wonders, the pain vanished entirely! Every subsequent application improved the patient, and in two days he was well and out. When the doctor called a few days after, he was indeed surprised.

SPINNING WHEEL.
LOVE'S SORROWS.
I bought a gilt spinning wheel
With wide plaid ribbon gay;
She tucked it for the dainty gift
In a most bewitching way.
I went in debt for violets.
She rapturously confessed
She doted on the purple flowers,
And pinned them on her breast.
I pawned my watch to buy a fan,
She let me call her Grace,
And kiss her in the dusty hall
Behind its spangled lace.
But when I bought a solitary
Her maiden vow to bind,
I found it, with a freezing lock, Disdainfully declined.

SERIOUS MIXING OF LETTERS.
A well-known citizen of Clay Center had been invited to an evening party. He wanted to go, but his wife declared that she had no gown suitable for the occasion, and asked him to send "regrets" to their hostess. The man went down to his office and penned this facetious note of declination:
"We regret that your kind invitation must be declined for all the conventional reasons, but the real reason is that half the family has nothing to wear. My wife's latest dress is over three weeks old, and her hat is twelve hours out of date. You will appreciate the hopelessness of the occasion and excuse us."
He thought this pretty good, and he determined to write a note to his wife also explaining that he would not be at home for an early dinner, as she had asked him. He said in this note:
"I have turned down your invitation because I am going out to another evening party where the guests are not expected to wear anything of importance. Sorry I won't be there to kiss you good-night."
And then the fool man carelessly sent his wife's note to the hostess and the hostess' note to his wife.—Clay Center Times.

What's your brother Sam at, Rachael?
"He's in de middle ob nex' week, dat's whar he's at, jes' on account ob his curiosity. He wanted ter know ob Johnson's gem had a harder head dan his'n. Did he fin' out? No, he ain't foun' out yet. He won't fin' out till he comes to. De doctah says dat won't be fore a couple ob days."—Judge.

Bobby Gaylor, who plays the title role in the new musical extravaganza, "The Wizard of Oz," has a harvest of stories reaped on both sides of the Atlantic. Here is one of Bobby's best, and he is full of them from Dion Boucicault's time down.
He was traveling through the west of Ireland with a small wagon show owned by the Lloyd Brothers, a team of musical clowns. The Lloyds had been with the Harmon show for one season on this side of the water and saved enough money to buy a circus outfit of their own, with which they toured towns and villages of Ireland. One night the tent in which they showed held such a sparse assemblage of spectators that Dick Lloyd, whose real name was Mulligan, was obliged to come before the scanty few and unburden himself of the following succinct apology:
"Ladies and Gentlemen: As there is nobody present I will dismiss you all. The performance of this night will not be given tonight, but the performance of this night will be repeated tomorrow night."

He was very quiet during the first course, and everyone forgot that he was there. As dessert was being served, however, he bustled to a story. When he had finished and the laughing had ceased, the little son exclaimed delightedly, "Now, papa, tell the other one!"—Editor's Drawer in Harper's.

GEOGRAPHY IN ENGLAND.
Sir George Birdwood has been telling some stories to illustrate the insularity and ignorance of English people in regard to foreign lands and foreign countries. Staying with an English family in France, he learned that their English servant, though long resident there, had picked up no French, but had made the French servants speak English. When this was remarked upon by Sir George, her reply was that "Master and missus might speak French, if they liked, but she warden't goin' to demean 'erself by speakin' the langwidge of they people we thrashed at Waterloo!" Shortly after, went on Sir George, the wife of a distinguished officer in the colonial office asked after the health of his son in Jerusalem. "He is in Cairo, in Egypt," was the reply. "Oh, no," replied Sir George, "I suppose you know Palestine soap?" "Yes, it has Jerusalem arachnides in it." "Well, Jerusalem is the capital of Palestine."

WOULD BE LIKE OTHERS.
"What would you do if you had a million dollars?"
"Oh," answered the philosophic citizen, "I suppose I'd be like the rest of humanity. If I were worth a million I'd probably worry myself into dyspepsia trying to make it a billion."—Washington Star.

A PATRIOTIC REMINDER.
Jay Cooke, the financier, was from his boyhood an enthusiastic angler. The waters of Put-in-Bay, not far from Sandusky, O., have often been the scene of his exploits from his earliest to his latest years. Concerning this harbor and its associations with a notable event in our naval history this little tale is a favorite of Mr. Cooke's: An old countryman entered a drug store in Sandusky, holding a handkerchief with a knot in it. "Well, made, what is it?" asked the clerk. "I'll get around to it pretty quick. Now, what place is it down here on the lake?" "Do you mean Put-in-Bay?" "Yes, that's it. Now, who was it that put in there?" "Perhaps you mean Commodore Perry?" "The very man. And I want a bottle of Perrygore!"

HER DIAGNOSIS.

NOT SELFISH.
A nephew of Col. Latham of Texas tells the following story of a negro baptizing in Texas:
An old negro preacher did the honors, and the candidate for baptism was a coal-black negro woman. The preacher led his victim far out into the stream, where she could be thoroughly immersed, and at the auspicious moment he cried in a loud voice:
"Be stiddy, sister, be stiddy, and you'll gain up whitah den snow."
"Oh, parson," she exclaimed, "dat's askin' too much; a cretain colobah'll do."

I suppose your chances of winning the affections of Miss Gay are as good as the next fellow's?" "I don't know."

A JOYFUL DISCOVERY.
With loud huzzas the populace approached the rostrum, whereupon stands a modest man, who seems to deprecate their enthusiasm.
"I thank you," he says, "for this medal, but I did no more than any other man should have done in my place."
With renewed cheers the populace bear him away on their shoulders.
"Whose life did he save?" asks a stranger of one on the edge of the crowd.
"Nobody's," is the reply. "He is the first newspaper man who ever wrote an article about the opening of the oyster season without referring to it as 'the luscious bivalve'."—Judge.

EXPLAINING THINGS.
"You sell ladies' hats here?" began the son-looking man.
"Certainly," replied the milliner, replying a smile. "You want to buy one for your wife?"
"No, I don't, but it looks as if I'd have to."—Philadelphia Press.

LOADING SATAN DOWN.
"Lightning knocked the church steeple down," one said to Brother Dickey.
"Yes; Satan's eyes always flash fire when he sees a church steeple going up."
"And here's a colored brother killed another at a camp meeting." "Yes; Satan goes ter meetin' long wid de res' er dem, an sometimes shouts de londes." "And a preacher was drowned in the river last week." "Oh, yes; Satan's in de water, too. He 'breege ter go dar ter cool off." "So you blame everything on Satan, do you?" "Bless God," was the reply, "ain't dat whar he's fer?"—Atlanta Constitution.

"Kin anyone make a motion?" asked one of the audience. "Gents," said Alkali Bill, chairman of the meeting, as he laid his revolver on the table, "evin' to the general custom of wearin' weapons in these parts I trust no one will make a motion."—Philadelphia Record.

A STUTTERER'S WOOLING.
"And he never told his love?"
"No, he stuttered so badly."
"Couldn't he sing it?"
"He could only sing in ragtime. And his whistle was a tremelo."
"And she married another?"
"No, she married him."
"How did that happen?"
"Why, he heard that she was engaged to another and braced up and came around to congratulate her, and he made such poor work of it that she thought he was proposing to her and accepted him on the spot!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

EXCUSES.
Excuses for absence handed to teachers in the public schools are often calculated to evoke smiles. Here are two that were received on the same day last week by a teacher in one of the Manhattan schools:
Teacher:
Pleas excuse my son he was help his mother half a babl to oblige his father.
Mother Miss: Please excuse my doctor. I was conduced with a new babl—hope it will be satisfactory.

"He'd done crossed over," the colored preacher said in the funeral sermon, "but it's all right wid 'im, I reckon, 'kaze de week befo' he died he took out a fire insurance policy."—Atlanta Constitution.

"A BIT OF BUTTER."
Betty Botter bought some butter.
"But," she said, "this butter's bitter.
If I put it in my batter,
It will make my batter bitter;
But a bit of better butter

So she bought a bit of better butter Better than the bitter butter.
And made the better batter better.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN ARE SLOWLY DYING FROM CATARRH

Pe-ru-na Cures, That is Why the People Like It.

All the Advertisement in the World Could Not Make Pe-ru-na as Popular as It Is.

Miss Margaret Donnelly, 21 Webster Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:
"Pe-ru-na was recommended to me about a year ago for catarrh with which I had been troubled nearly all my life, but which had given me serious trouble a few months before I took Pe-ru-na. In two weeks my head cleared up, I did not have headaches, and in a short time felt perfectly well."—Margaret Donnelly.

November Colds Should Not Be Allowed to Develop Into Chronic Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Cures a Cold Promptly and Permanently.

"I am glad to recommend Pe-ru-na as it has done so much for me. I had been a great sufferer from catarrhal colds until I was urged to try Pe-ru-na, and I am happy to say that it has entirely cured me. I shall never be without it and most cheerfully recommend it to others who are afflicted as I have been."—Katherine Dauter, 239 13th St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Most people think the success of Pe-ru-na depends upon the use of advertisements. Undoubtedly the advertisements help some. But by far the greatest number of people who hear of Pe-ru-na, have their attention called to it by a friend.

Some one gets cured of chronic catarrh by Pe-ru-na. After he is certain of his cure, he is sure to recommend it to his friends. Friend recommends it to friend and the news spreads from tongue to tongue.

All the advertisements in the world could not make Pe-ru-na as popular as it is. Pe-ru-na cures. That is the reason people like it. Pe-ru-na cures a very stubborn disease. That is why everyone recommends it. Pe-ru-na cures chronic catarrh after all other remedies fail, which explains why neighbor recommends it to neighbors. Pe-ru-na cures catarrh permanently, and this way has gained a lifelong friend.

People who have been cured by Pe-ru-na many years ago have been eager to recommend Pe-ru-na to their friends ever since. This is the way Pe-ru-na is advertised. It advertises itself. Its merits are its chief advertisement. Once cured of so distressing and excruciating a malady as catarrh, it becomes the duty of every one to pass it along to call the attention of those who are still victims, to a remedy that rarely fails to cure.

Beware of Cheap Imitations of Pe-ru-na—Be Sure That You Get Pe-ru-na.

There are no substitutes for Pe-ru-na. Allow no one to persuade you that there is something just as good. The success of Pe-ru-na has tempted many people to devise cheap imitations. Beware of them. Be sure that you get Pe-ru-na.

Miss Jennie Driscoll, 870 Putnam Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:
"I heard so much in praise of Pe-ru-na as a specific for catarrhal affections that when I found myself with a bad case of catarrh of the head and throat Pe-ru-na was the first thing that I thought of. And my conviction was not wrong, for in a few weeks after using Pe-ru-na systematically I was entirely rid of this aggravating and distressing disease, catarrh.

"If people knew how efficient Pe-ru-na was for this trouble they could not hesitate to try it. I have all the faith in the world in it, and have never known of a case where the person was not cured in a short time."—Jennie Driscoll.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

PITTSVILLE.

Most of the people of Pittsville are bound to the republican party by a very solemn oath. It reads like this: "May this right hand be cut off, and may this left hand forget its cunning if ever I vote for a democrat." Yes, Mr. C., we are too intelligent a people to help elect even a corner on the democrat side, as he might get to tinkering with the tariff and upset all our prosperity and raise the d— with our Pittsville bank still in embryo. One man expressed the opinion that if Rose was elected a certain bad man would get the P. O. and he would vote against it. Good Advice.

A young farmer lad, who was born and raised in the same neighborhood with the writer, wants to know if he doesn't stand a better chance to make his way in the world by going to town rather than plugging away on a farm. He is just an ordinary farmer lad. We think that he had better stay on the farm. If he was the exception, if he had the ability to handle 1,000 men, if he could take hold of some company or corporation and make it yield dividends of 15 or 20 per cent., if he could do this then let him leave the farm, let him begin at the top. But for the average young man, he had better stay on the farm—not that farming takes any less ability or skill for the world is beginning to realize that the farmer should keep his best son on the farm; any of the others are good enough to make doctors or lawyers. We want to lay strong emphasis on that word "average." The average young man who goes to town, never becomes more than a freight conductor, or an agent, at some way station, or the oldest clerk in the store, or the oldest bookkeeper in an office. These had better stick to the farm. The chances for advancement in the commercial world are not as many as fifty years ago. All the small businesses are being consolidated so that there are few choice positions and the top place is farther away. The old man in the commercial world who has to work for his living is not a pleasant idea.—The Cannery Producer.

Seventy-five Tons a Minute.

Iron ore was loaded yesterday at the Chicago & North-Western docks at Ashland, Wis., at the tremendous rate of speed of 75 tons an hour. The exact figures were 522 tons in one hour and eight minutes, the ore being loaded into the steamer James H. Hoyt, which is built with a special view to rapid loading and unloading.

The North-Western Line has two big ore docks at Ashland, each one of them about 1/2 of a mile long, and it was at one of these large storage docks that the Hoyt received its load record-breaking time. Supt. Sampson of the North-Western personally supervised the loading, and several newspaper men witnessed it and corroborated the correctness of the record. The last ore was let into the hold, and the lines were cast off in record-breaking time in fact, the engineer of the boat hardly found time to get the water ballast out of the vessel.

This rapid work is made possible by the exceptional facilities of the North-Western line. Large capacity cars and big docks with large storage capacity have made the handling of tremendous quantities of ore possible. The docks of the North-Western line at Ashland and Escanaba have a capacity exceeding that of any other line in the Lake Superior region, to which is to be added one new building, which, when completed, will increase their capacity almost 50 per cent and be the largest ore dock on the Lakes.

WAS A GOOD SHOW.

A Large Audience is Entertained at
Old New Hampshire."

The Metropolitan Stock company
put up a fairly good show at the opera house on Tuesday evening and there
was a large and appreciative audience
present to see the production, and everybody seemed to be well pleased with what they saw.

In Old New Hampshire is a good
play and materially different from the
average run of way-down-on-the-farm
productions that have been worked to
is an abundance of fun as well as
pathos that appeal strongly to the listeners and makes it a very strong
play.

The snow storm in the third act
was one of the most real things of the
kind that has been produced on the stage in this city for many a day, and
the wind that accompanied the storm
was so real that several of the more sensitive ones in the audience contracted severe colds although the hall
was quite warm at the time.

While a lack of space and time prevents giving each one an individual writeup, it is no more than just to say that as a company they did better
than many troupes that strike town
and pass themselves off as professionals and make their living in the
theatrical business, and while they
may have shown some weak spots, they may rest assured that whenever they bring forth another play and
make as honest an effort to please the
public as they did in "Old New Hampshire" they will find the public ready
to patronize them.

The company goes to Pittsville on
tomorrow evening and we venture the assertion that they will put up one of the best shows that was ever seen
in that city.

City Will Prospect for Water on Vaughan Property.

At the meeting of the city council
on Wednesday evening of last week
it was decided to take an option on
the property south of the pumping
station for the purpose of prospecting
for water to supply the waterworks
with a sufficient supply.

The purchase price agreed on by
the interested parties is $2500 and the option extends over 94 days, by which time it is figured that the matter can
be investigated and if there is a sufficiency of water the balance of the purchase price will be paid over. The land that the city holds the option on
includes two flowing springs that are used by Mr. Vaughan for irrigating
purposes, and which in themselves
furnish considerable water, although

City Engineer Phillee is confident that an abundance of water can be secured from this land, in fact more
than the city will use for years to come, and if this is so, the money spent for the property will be well invested.

Many parties on the east side have
had the water mains tapped since the
system was accepted by the city, and
many more are anxiously awaiting
the time when they can also be supplied with water.

Married.

On Tuesday, November 11, at the Catholic church in this city, Mr. Grant
S. Beardsley and Miss Maggie Hamm,
Rev. F. VanRoosmalen officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara Hamm, and Mr. John Hamm filled the capacity of best man.
Both the young people are well and most favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Mrs. John Hamm, while Mr. Beardsley is an employee in the store of the Heineman
Mercantile company.

morning over the Northwestern for Chicago and other points and will be
gone a week or more on a wedding tour. Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley will be
after November 22nd. The Tribune
unites with the many friends of the newly wedded pair to wish them hap-

The Old Wisconsin Yields up An-
other Mystery.

On Sunday while the two boys of August Kempfert were engaged in
setting traps for muskrat on their
father's farm north of Biron they
made a gruesome discovery on the
river bank in the shape of a skeleton
which lay half buried in the sand.
The boys notified some older people
and investigation showed that the
skeleton had undoubtedly been in the ground for some time and had only recently been uncovered by the action of the water. The skeleton was pronounced to be that of a man by those
of time had destroyed any external
evidences that might assist in identifying the remains, and just who the
unfortunate one was when in the mortal flesh, or whether he was murdered
and thrown into the river, drowned
and forgotten, or died a natural death
and was buried on the river bank and
subsequently washed out by the action
of the water, will never be known.

The finding of the unknown skeleton, however, recalls to the old residents who have lived in that section
for many years, a mystery that puzzled
the residents there for some time
and then died out without being solved
or anybody being punished for what
was then supposed to be a crime.

west side of the river an old bachelor
by the name of Charles Mitch. Mitch
resided about a mile and a half above
where Biron now stands and where at
that time there was a sort of a ferry
maintained across the river. Mitch
was supposed to have some money
and one day he was found to be missing, and although search was instituted for him nothing was ever discovered of his whereabouts. Later on Alex Taylor, who also lived on the west side of the river in the same vicinity, disappeared, and although he was searched for his whereabouts
was not discovered.

Some time after this a body was discovered in the Wisconsin river, and
all the evidences showed that the man had been foully murdered. There was a bullet hole through the man's
hips and several gashes in the head
and face showed where he had been struck several murderous blows with
the sharp edge of an ax. There was no doubt in anybody's mind how he had met his death, as his clothing had
also been weighted with rocks when
the body was thrown into the river,
but the formation of gases had subsequently caused it to float to the surface. The body was easily identified
as that of Alex Taylor.

After the discovery of Taylor's body
a report was circulated that Taylor
had been the cause of Mitch's disappearance, but there was nothing to substantiate this story and no credence was given the matter by those who knew Mr. Taylor and who knew him to be a good citizen during his life. The discovery of Mr. Taylor's body and the story circulated revived
the search for the remains of Mitch,
but nothing was ever discovered that
would have any tendency to unravel
the mystery or throw any light whatever on the matter. Now some of the old residents say that this skeleton
may be all that remains of Mitch, and
that after thirty years of obscurity it
has come to light as a reminder if not
a solution of one of the mysteries
that formed a part in the earlier history of Wood county.

from Biron Justice W. H. Getts went to the scene of the finding on Tuesday for the purpose of making an investigation and discovering if possible
where the remains had come from and
to whom they belonged. After considerable inquiry it was discovered
that a man had been found in the
river about sixteen years ago, and as
the identity of the person was not
discovered at the time a rude box was constructed and the remains buried
on the river bank. It was evident at
the time that the body had been in
had floated down from some point
considerably north of here and as
none of his relatives were known the
body. Upon examination Mr. Getts discovered that there were the remains
of a coffin or box about the skeleton,
indicating that it had been buried
before. It is probable that when the body was buried in the first place it
was some little distance from the water's edge, but the lapse of time
has changed the course of the current
sufficiently to wash out the remains
and expose them to view.

Large Grist of Bills to Audit.—Other News Items of Interest About
the City.

The county board met at the court house in this city on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Chairman John Juno presiding. After calling the roll and finding a quorum present an adjournment was taken until Thursday in order to give the committees time to perform their labors. There are a large number of bills to audit at
this session, but outside of this it is
public.

One matter that will come up at this meeting of the board will be the
proposed moving of the poor farm.
It is the general opinion of the members, so far as they have been inter-
in the matter as it now stands, owing
probably to the cost involved in making the change. It is not expected that the board will be able to finish
its labors this week.

Went Like Hot Cakes.—E. C.
Ketchum received a carload of hard
coal last week and he had it disposed
of in short order, even at the unusual
price of $12.50 per ton. Mr. Ketchum states that the coal cost him over $12
a ton on the track here, so he did not make any great money by the transaction, when the cost of delivering is figured in. He states, however, that
to get a reduction from this price in
his customers at a more moderate
close of navigation it is not probable
that this commodity will be a great
consensus of opinion among dealers
and others that the price will never go back to where it was before the strike
as the mine owners will improve the opportunity to make a good thing off
from the general public as long as they are able to do so.

Potatoes Stronger.—During the
past week potato buyers have been paying thirty cents per bushel for potatoes and the indications are that they will be better in price than this
before a great while, as the supply is
not large enough to warrant the low price that the tubers have been selling at since the opening of the season. Ben Hanson, who has charge of the Copps warehouse in this city, has purchased a large number of onions
this fall, paying 40 cents a bushel for them. Mr. Hansen states that the farmers in the neighborhood of Arpin
are going into the raising of onions
quite extensively and that the land in
that section is well adapted for their
culture, so that with proper cultivation they get fairly good crops and
consequently get good returns for their labor. It is the opinion of those who have engaged in onion raising
for any length of time that the crop
of this product is surer than potatoes
and the price is always higher.

Will Run on Time.—The members
of the school board have closed a contract for a program clock which
will be installed in the new high school, which it is calculated will keep the children and their teachers
moving on time the year round.
The affair is a system of clocks that are regulated by a parent clock in the principal's room, and can be set so that when time comes for the end of a recitation the gongs in all the recitation rooms ring simultaneously, and
to move at the same time, and will
avoid any confusion or waiting for
other classes. The gongs and other clocks are actuated and regulated by
a pneumatic arrangement that
connects up the whole system and the
affair is considered just the thing for a modern school building.

Found Not Guilty.—Frank Smol-
ark was arrested last week at the investigation of Albert Pozorski, charged with assault and battery. The assault
was claimed to have occurred some time before on an evening when there was a political rally in the town hall
in the town of Sigel. It appears that during or after the rally some intoxicating liquor had been brought to the place, an unusual thing during a political meeting, and some of those present imbibed so much more than
was their custom that they became
imbued with a desire to wallop some
of their neighbors, and the consequence was that there was quite a lively scrap, in which several took an active part. After listening to all the evidence the jury decided that Mr.
Smolark was not guilty and he was discharged.

Occupies New Home.—Jas. Chamberlain has removed into his new
home on French street which has been
in course of construction during the
past summer and he now occupies one
of the most modern and up-to-date
residences in the city. All the modern appliances have been placed into
this building to make it convenient
for living purposes and the interior is
a model of convenience. Five years ago when Mr. Chamberlain bought
the lot on which his dwelling stands
the place was little more than a frog
pond, the ground being low and swampy and often covered with water.
Mr. Chamberlain has had several thousand loads of dirt hauled onto
the place and the result is that the
surroundings are now as high and

A Peculiar Accident.—The five
months old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett met with a peculiar accident
on Tuesday evening. The child was

the plastering dropped from the ceiling and struck the boy on the head.
The scalp was cut open by the force of the blow and it was necessary for
a surgeon to take three stitches in the
wound in order to close it. It is not
suffer any further trouble from the wound.

Returned the Clapper.—On Halloween some boys removed the clapper
from the bell in the high school and
when the janitor went to ring the bell
the next morning he thought he had
lost his hearing there was such a profound silence. The janitor tumbled to the racket, or rather the lack of
racket, and reported the matter to Superintendent Youker. This gentleman kindly admonished the boys to desert their wayward ways and return
the property without delay, and the clapper was subsequently found in a nearby tree.

Labor Saving Device.—J. H. Landry, the harness maker, has installed
in his shop a sewing machine which
he uses for the purpose of sewing all kinds of harness work. The machine is a heavy affair and will sew through
the heaviest tug with apparent ease,
although the operator has to exert
considerable energy with his feet
while the concern is in operation. It is certainly much speedier than hand
work and the manufacturers claim
that the work done by it is stronger

Hacker's Orchestra Coming.—On Thursday evening, November 20th, Hacker's Baraboo orchestra will be at the opera hall in this city to give a concert and dance. This orchestra is one of the best in the state both for
furnishing concert and dance music
and those who attend may depend on hearing some good music as well as
having a good time at the dance.
Prices will be 25 cents each for the
concert and 75 cents per couple for the dance. Dancing will commence at 9 o'clock.

Wrestling Match.—Fred Beeli of Marshfield has been matched to wrestle with Emil Klauk on Friday evening, November 17th, for $100 a side, the match to take place in Marsh-
field. Klauk is a heavyweight who has recently sprung into prominence
by winning some fairly good battles
and the match promises to be a good
one. The match will be catch-as-catch-can and the men will meet at catch weights.

Want a Bank.—The citizens of Pittsville are making an effort to have
a national bank established in their city. The Pilot is authority for the
money raised to assure the establishment of a bank, and it would seem as
if there would be an urgent demand
for an institution of this sort in a city
that is so completely isolated from any of the banks in the neighborhood.

Will Hold Opening.—A. C. Otto has
got his drug store so nearly completed
that he is preparing to hold a formal opening of the place on Wednesday
and Thursday, November 19 and 20.
The general public is invited to be present and participate in the affair.
There will be music on the occasion
and those who attend will receive souvenirs.

Advised to Leave.—Julia Blakeley
and Sarah Brown were arrested on Saturday charged with running a house of ill fame. They were brought before Justice Crotteau, when the case
was adjourned for one week and the prisoners advised to leave town with-
negroes who have been living on the west side.

Will Go to Pittsville.—The members of the Metropolitan Stock company intend to take their show to Pittsville and produce it there on the evening of Thursday, November 13th.
There is no doubt but they will meet
with success and a full house there.

First of the Season.—D. M. Huntington was the first man to bring in a deer this fall, but as Dwight has a deer park with a number of tame deer
he failed to convince anybody of his prowess as a hunter.

Death of Dalbert Miller.

Dalbert Miller died at the home of his sister, Miss Lizzie Miller, at Stevens Point on Friday after an illness extending over several months. The
young man was well known in this city and vicinity, having been a resident of the town of Grand Rapids for many years. He had become so weak from the ravages of the disease that his sister came here and prevailed on him to go to Stevens Point where she was
in hopes she could benefit him by
in vain. The funeral was held on Monday, the remains being brought to this city and interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

Died at Poor Farm

Peter Lillie, an inmate of the poor
farm, died at that institution on the 7th instant, after an illness of only a few days. The deceased came from Sherry where he has two sons living,
and has been an inmate of the place for the past six years. He was 38 years old.

From an Auctioneer.

Col. C. H. McDonald of Greenview,
Ills., in a letter May 1st, 1901, says,
"I am an auctioneer and being often
exposed to the weather, am seriously troubled by my throat becoming irritated and hoarseness following.
When troubled in this way, I always
use Hart's Honey and Horchound. It

Railroads Concede But Half of the Demands and Strike May Be Ordered.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 8.—Eight thousand members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed in the switchyards of the Chicago district are considering a proposition to strike if the railroad companies do not grant them an increase in wages amounting to 5 cents an hour.

Two weeks ago the men filed their demands with the seventeen companies entering Chicago, and yesterday morning they received their answer. Instead of 5 cents an hour raise, which amounts to 20 per cent, they were offered a raise of 2 1/2 cents an hour for the men and 3 1/2 for the foremen.

The executive committee of the brotherhood refused to accept the terms proposed. They held that their demands were just and should be met. They notified the companies to that effect, and then drew up a strike proposition for the men. This was sent out late last night to all members of the organization.

The brotherhood by its own laws cannot call a strike until a period of thirty days has expired after the agreement with the roads has been declared null and void.

The present wage scale and the wage scale demanded are as follows:

	Old scale.	New scale.
Day foremen	$0.27	$0.32
Night foremen	29	34
Day switchmen	25	30
Night switchmen	27	32

This scale has been in force for over ten years. It was framed when the engines on the roads were small, the cars in a train few, and the work in the yards light. The present movement is the first of its kind in the West, and is the beginning of a general campaign for higher wages that will affect freight brakemen, freight conductors and passenger conductors on all lines running West from Chicago.

TRIGGER'S FAILURE SAVES MAN'S LIFE.

Disgruntled Customer Had Gun Pointing at Nestoria Saloonkeeper's Head.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Had not the gun missed fire, George Jones, a saloonkeeper at Nestoria, would have had his head blown off yesterday, by James O'Donohue. The latter, after drinking a considerable quantity of liquor, became so objectionable that Jones put him out of the saloon. O'Donohue then got a shotgun and coming back forced Jones into a corner with the gun pointed squarely at the saloonkeeper. The few bystanders were too surprised and terrified to act, expecting to see Jones' head blown off. The trigger was snapped but missed fire. O'Donohue was then overpowered and turned over to the police.

SHOT THE FOREMAN.

Rash Act of a Miner Who Had Applied for Work and Had Been Refused.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 8.—Dennis Doris, foreman at the Susquehanna Coal Company's mines at Glen Lyon, this country, was fatally shot today by a miner named J. C. Hennessy. Two shots were fired at the foreman, one hitting the abdomen and the other the right arm. Hennessy made application for work to Foreman Doris and the latter refused him a place. This angered Hennessy and without any warning he drew a revolver and began firing. Doris is popular and there were threats of lynching.

STRIKE AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Stoneworkers Want Operations Removed From Indiana Quarries.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Carpenters, bricklayers and stonemasons numbering 250 men engaged in the construction of the art building at the world's fair grounds went on strike because of unsuccessful negotiations with the contractors to have the stone that is used cut and dressed here instead of at Bedford, Ind. The contractors claim union men are working on the stone at Bedford and refused to grant the demand. It is feared more workmen may strike from sympathy.

Pleasant Shop Talk.

"Don't you like to have anybody talk shop when they come to see you?" gurgled Mary.

"Indeed I do! Who's been talking shop to you?"

"Oh, Charley, of course! He's a trolley car conductor, you know, and nearly every time he comes to see me he goes on with his shop talk."

"What does he say?"

New York, Nov. 8.—At 12 o'clock today, revised returns from the state indicated that Odell's plurality would be about 10,000. These figures were based on complete returns from a number of counties with partial returns from others, missing districts being estimated. The Republican plurality above the Bronx as indicated by the returns received was 132,000 against 122,000 in Greater New York for Coler. Figures from Greater New York with two election districts missing gave Coler 122,014 plurality. The vote was as follows: Manhattan and the Bronx, Coler, 190,230; Odell, 104,025; Brooklyn, Coler, 110,434; Odell, 84,285; Queens, Coler, 16,734; Odell, 9,585; Richmond, Coler, 7,005; Odell, 4,920.

For Congress nineteen Republicans and seventeen Democrats were elected, with one district in doubt. In the present Congress are twenty-two Republicans and twelve Democrats. Today's estimates are that the new state Senate would stand thirty Republicans and twenty Democrats and the assembly eighty-one Republicans and sixty-one Democrats.

In spite of a phenomenally large vote in New York and Kings county for Bird S. Coler, Democrat, the returns indicated the reelection of Benjamin F. Odell (Rep.) to the governorship of New York upwards of 10,000 plurality. Coler's plurality in Greater New York exceeded 115,000, a surplus of 3,000 above the election of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, but even that large vote was not sufficient to overcome the Republican majorities from up the state. Odell's vote in the country district was lighter than two years ago, but Coler's was also lower than Stanchfield's in the same year. In New York city Coler's plurality was approximately 117,500, made up as follows: New York county, 88,000; Kings county, 26,500; Queens, 5,500; Richmond, 2,500.

Oyster Bay, where President Roosevelt's country home is situated and where he voted today, was carried by Coler. His plurality being 131. Two years ago Odell's plurality was 512.

Republicans Lose Four Congressmen.

Figures from the congressional district in New York city and the Long Island counties apparently show a loss of four members of the national House for the Republicans, the heavy Coler vote having carried, according to the first returns, the first nineteen districts in the state for the Democratic candidates. All returns indicated that John Gray, Democratic candidate for judge of the court of appeals, ran somewhat ahead of his ticket.

The Democrats made gains in the state Legislature, but they were not sufficient to endanger the Republican hold on the seat in the United States Senate, now held by Thomas C. Platt.

Yellow Journalist in Congress.

Unofficial figures on the vote for congressmen in New York county made it appear that the Democrats had elected all of their candidates in the county. Perhaps the most notable change was in the newly formed Thirteenth district, which was supposed to be Republican by from 5,000 to 10,000, but which gave a plurality for Francis Burton Harrison (Dem.). Mr. Harrison made an active canvass. He was supported by both Tammany Hall and the Greater New York Democracy. William R. Hart, proprietor of the New York American, was elected from the Eleventh district. Others elected to the national House from New York county are Timothy D. Sullivan, formerly a state senator and one of the best known of Tammany leaders, and Henry M. Goldicock, who beat Charles Adler. All told the Democrats won two Senate districts and four Assembly districts in New York county, among them the Ninth, where William S. Devere's candidate, Richard J. Butler, was elected. The Republicans lost nine assembliesmen in Kings county.

Landslide in Favor of Democrats.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Since Roswell P. Flower in a Democratic landslide defeated J. N. East for governor in an easy victory there has been much talk of a turning of votes from the Republican to the Democratic party in this state, that which occurred yesterday. With the exception of Erie, Albany and Rensselaer counties every Democratic candidate of sweeping majorities was carried out and amplified.

ILLINOIS.

Republicans Gain Seven Congressmen and Control Legislature.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 8.—The Republicans carried Illinois by about 40,000 plurality. Basis for state representation, plurality of about 15,000 votes in Co., and the balance in the state at large.

With Madden defeated the Republicans have eighteen congressmen in the state. This is under the new census apportionment, by which Illinois gets twenty-five congressmen. The delegation was evenly divided when Illinois had twenty-two districts, so it will be seen the Republicans have made a gain of seven congressmen. The Republicans have a good working majority in both branches of the general Assembly and on joint ballot.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Republicans Carry the State, but are Defeated in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 8.—Lieut. Gov. John L. Bates of Boston was elected governor by the Republicans, defeating William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate, by 37,479 plurality, the vote being: Bates (Rep.), 195,961; Gaston (Dem.), 158,482. The Republicans also elect ten out of fourteen congressmen. The Legislature remains unchanged, the Senate standing, according to the late returns, 33 Republicans and 7 Democrats, and the House 162 Republicans, 75 Democrats and 3 Socialists.

Bates ran a rife ahead of Gov. Crane's vote of last year, but Gaston won the Democratic ticket, polled over 25,000 more votes than did Quincy in 1901. The Republican plurality is the smallest since 1893. The Democratic gains were mostly in the country towns, although Mr. Gaston ran well in most of the cities. His plurality in Boston, however, was somewhat lower than the estimates of the party managers before the election.

DELAWARE.

Result on Legislature Indicates that There will Be Another Deadlock.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 8.—Later advice from throughout the state demonstrate that a deadlock will occur in the Legislature on the double senatorial vacancy.

The membership of the General Assembly will be: Newcastle county—Senate, four Republicans, three Democrats; House, seven Republicans, eight Democrats. Kent county—Senate, three Union Republicans, two Democrats; House, five Democrats, four Union Republicans. One tie, Sussex county—Senate, three Union Republicans, three Democrats; House, seven Union Republicans, three Democrats. Total, Senate, ten Republicans, seven Democrats; House, eighteen Republicans, sixteen Democrats, one tie.

The regular Republicans claim eight of this number who will vote against Addicks. The perceptible gains of the Democrats in Newcastle county were offset by Union Republican gains in Kent and Sussex counties. Unless the Democrats and regular Republicans coalesce and elect one from each side to the United States Senate, it is clearly apparent that the deadlock will remain broken. It is stated that the election of James T. Shallcross (Dem.), in the Thirtieth representative district of Newcastle county, will be contested by O. V. Aspro, his Republican opponent. Shallcross had but 4 majority.

WASHINGTON.

Republicans Carry the State and will Control the Legislature.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—The Republicans have carried the state of Washington by a majority that may run as high as 12,000, though the indication is that it will run for over 10,000. The state committee does not claim the election of any of its state ticket, though insisting that the meager returns received justify the belief that there is a chance for Democratic control of the state Legislature. Chairman Morris of the Republican committee holds that the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot of 40.

The returns so far received seem to justify the claim of a large Republican majority in both branches of the Legislature. Owing to the fact that there is an overwhelming majority of Republicans in the list of hold-over senators this branch has not been in doubt. The House will probably be controlled by a proportionate majority.

It is likely that Judge Hiram E. Hadley, nominee for justice of the supreme court, will lead the Republican state ticket. The three congressional nominees will run very close.

OHIO.

Chairman Dick Places the Republican Plurality at 100,000.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—The Republicans carried Ohio by next to their highest plurality on record. Nothing above 70,000 had been predicted, but partial returns indicate that it will greatly exceed those figures. At the same time the Republicans on returns up to midnight made a total of 100,000 votes in the last Congress. The pluralities in all of the four Democratic districts were greatly reduced and in the Republican districts increased. The only changes were in the Twelfth and Thirteenth districts and they offset each other. The Democrats gained the former by electing Judge Dewitt C. Badger over Cyrus Huling and lost the latter by the defeat of Dr. James A. Norton, who has been in Congress many years.

At midnight Chairman Dick said: "Returns to this date do not change our estimate of 100,000 Republican plurality. We have carried all districts now represented in Congress by Republicans, with the possible exception of the Twelfth, and in its place we have another."

With more complete returns the Republicans today say their plurality on the state ticket will approximate 100,000 and that the Ohio congressmen stand 17 Republicans and 13 Democrats in the last Congress. The pluralities in all of the four Democratic districts were greatly reduced and in the Republican districts increased. The only changes were in the Twelfth and Thirteenth districts and they offset each other. The Democrats gained the former by electing Judge Dewitt C. Badger over Cyrus Huling and lost the latter by the defeat of Dr. James A. Norton, who has been in Congress many years.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Republican Candidate for Governor Has Estimated Plurality of 175,000.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 8.—Today for the first time in the history of the state, more than 1,000,000 votes were cast in an election. Samuel W. Pennypacker (Rep.) was elected governor, with an estimated plurality of 175,000 and the Republican ticket was generally successful in the various counties. The Democrats elected two and possibly three of the thirty-two congressmen. The Legislature will be more strongly Republican than ever before, with the exception of the 1894 session, and it is certain that S. Dole's Pennrose will succeed himself in the United States Senate.

NEW JERSEY.

Democrats Make Gains, but Fail to Secure Control of the State.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 8.—The Democrats made gains but failed to get control of the state. In the congressional contests the Republicans elected seven of their candidates as against six which they had under the old apportionment. The Democrats elected three as against two under the old allotment.

The Republicans again control the Senate, but by a reduced majority. They also control the Assembly, but by a reduced majority.

Republican State Ticket Elected with Some Doubt About Governor.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 8.—The latest returns from the interior of California and this city, where the count is progressing very slowly, indicate the election of the Republican state ticket. The plurality of J. H. Payne, the governor, is not estimated at over 500 and the unionist managers do not concede his election. There seems to be no doubt of the success of the other Republican nominees for state offices. The contests in the First and Second Congressional districts are close and it may require the complete returns to determine the results. The successful Republican candidates are Metcalf in the Third, Kahn in the Fourth, Needham in the Sixth, McLachlan in the Seventh and Daniels in the Eighth. Lord (Union Labor) in the Fifth. The Legislature will be Republican by a good working majority. San Francisco gives Lane, the Democratic candidate for governor, about 10,000 plurality, there being a Socialist candidate in the field, but this will probably be more than offset by the pluralities for Pardee in other parts of the state.

INDIANA.

Harry New Claims Election of Nine Members of Congress.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—Returns indicate that the Republicans have elected their entire state ticket by an estimated plurality of 30,000.

Republicans have elected six congressmen—those in the Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh. The Seventh district is believed to have re-elected Mr. Overstreet, the Republican nominee.

Both state chairmen are still claiming the victory in the First district.

Harry New says he has carried Indiana by 40,000 majority, elected a Legislature Republican in both branches, insuring the election of a United States senator. The Republicans have elected nine and probably ten members of Congress. They have carried the First (Hemenway's) district and the Sixth, but probably a Democrat is elected in the Fourth district.

Entire State Ticket and Eight Congressmen Elected by Republicans.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 8.—Kansas has gone Republican by at least 40,000 majority, the entire state ticket and all the eight congressmen are elected by the Republicans. The Republicans will have 100 members in the Legislature.

W. J. Bailey, the Republican candidate for governor, ran ahead of his ticket.

Returns from over the state late last night show that the Republican county officers were generally elected. It was the most complete victory since the days before Populism.

Morton Abough, Republican state chairman, said last night that practically every member of the Legislature would be Republican.

The Democratic state committee concedes the Republican claims in everything except the Legislature.

Republicans will Have 160 Majority in Legislature—To Return Gallinger.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Late returns show that Bachelder (Rep.) will be elected governor by at least 8000 plurality. Nineteen Republicans are elected to the Senate by popular vote, with probably two or three elections thrown into the Legislature. This body will be Republican on joint ballot by nearly 160 majority, thus assuring the re-election of United States Senator Gallinger, who has no competitor.

NEBRASKA.

Bryan's State Goes Republican, but by a Narrow Margin.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—Nebraska has probably gone Republican, but by a narrow margin. Mickey (Rep.) has run slightly behind his ticket, and Thompson (Fusionist) has run ahead, indicating the state ticket by probably 10,000. Mickey's plurality can hardly exceed 4000.

The Republicans elected Burkett to Congress in the First district, Hinshaw in the Fourth and probably Kinkaid in the Sixth; the Fusionists elect Hitchcock in the Second, Robinson in the Third and probably Shallenberger in the Fifth, a Republican gain of one for the state.

WYOMING.

Legislature is Overwhelmingly Republican—State Ticket Likewise.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 8.—The Republicans claim that Congressman F. W. Mondell has been re-elected by a plurality of about 3500 and the entire Republican state ticket by pluralities of 4000. They assert that the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican and credit the Democrats with three members at the most. The Democratic chairman, Hammond, had no statement to make.

MICHIGAN.

Republicans Elect Eleven Out of Twelve Candidates for Congress.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8.—The revised returns that are being received today show a total of 1,414,000 votes for 47,412 and for Durand (Dem.), 14,650, giving Gov. Bliss a plurality of 32,764. Gov. Bliss ran 11,870 behind Fred M. Warner, Republican candidate for secretary of state, according to the returns, which when completed, will lower Gov. Bliss' plurality a trifle more, it is expected.

Durand made a particularly strong run in Wayne county, which he carried by nearly 10,000. The Legislature will be made up as follows: House—Republicans, 50; Democrats, 9; one district still in doubt. Senate—Republicans, 29; Democrats, 2; one district still in doubt.

In Detroit Mayor William C. Maybury (Dem.) polled a total vote of 24,507. Dr. J. H. Carstens, his Republican opponent, getting 23,512, a plurality for May.

The First Congressional district Alfred Lucking, the only Democratic congressman elected from Michigan, has a plurality of 3523 with eleven precincts still to be heard from at noon.

MISSOURI.

Democratic Plurality will be 20,000 and May Be Greater.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—It is generally conceded from returns up to this morning that Missouri is Democratic by a safe plurality. Indication are that the Democratic plurality in the state ticket will hardly fall below 20,000 and may be much greater. Both branches of the Legislature are Democratic. The House has a sufficient majority to ensure the election of a Democrat to succeed United States Senator Vest. In St. Louis the entire Democratic city ticket is believed to have been elected.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Returns Indicate Republican Losses—Vote on Congressmen.

Boxers Burn Churches and Kill Many Native Converts.

BATTLES ARE FOUGHT.

Many of the Insurgents Are Killed—Those Taken Prisoners Had Their Heads Cut Off.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 8.—Mail advices received from the Orient include official reports from Kwei Chun, ex-viceroy of Sze Chuan, detailing the recent Boxer outbreak there. After relating the incidents leading up to the destruction of the churches in the two districts and the murder of many native converts, the report says:

"Several regiments of troops were sent to the disturbed places and besides slaying 200 or 300 of the insurgents, the troops succeeded in capturing several who were brought to Chang Tu and decapitated."

"Between 5000 and 6000 Boxers had assembled in Hwa Yang, Chin Tang, Hsion and Chien Tow, where they occupied the market towns and killed as many captives of the train bands as they could get hold of. The fight followed and 200 Boxers were killed and others driven back. The force sent was obliged to return."

The report describing the attack on Cheng Tu, where three regiments and 600 bannermen had been assembled for defense, says:

"The Boxers attacked the imperial troops in the outskirts of Chen Tu, and a hot battle followed, which lasted for a whole night, with a result that between 400 and 500 of the rebels were slain, about 1000 were dispersed and the rest retreated to Chin Tang Sien, where they burned the churches and put many native converts to death. When the imperial troops were dispatched to Chang Tang Sien the Boxers proceeded to Hsiao Chin Ping, where they joined forces with other insurgents. A battle was fought there, the Boxers fled to the hills at Suchiawen, where they found refuge for the time being, but reinforcements of imperial troops arrived and marched against the rebels in Suchiawen, in three different directions, slaying about 1400 of them and capturing thirteen alive, who were beheaded on the spot after undergoing a formal trial."

Three Jurors Defeat Proposed Verdict in Case of Rev. Rabe and Miss Bush.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Rabe arrived last evening and went to the morgue to view the body of her husband, Rev. W. C. Rabe, who was found dead in the arms of Miss Augusta Bush at the German Baptist Church Wednesday morning. She was compelled to pass by the dead form of Miss Bush, and horror was apparent on her face as she kept it averted from the woman's corpse.

One of the coroner's jurors says three of the panel wished to return a verdict containing the clause "that the deceased were stricken dead by Almighty God in his wrath against their sin," but the other three vetoed it.

One of the jurors says the Bible taken from the pulpit was pilloved under Miss Bush's head when the two were found dead.

Arrangements have been perfected by the church trustees for the funeral of Miss Bush, to take place this afternoon in the church in which she died. The body of the dead pastor will not be permitted to be taken into the church if the trustees can prevent. His funeral has not been arranged.

Over 5000 people viewed the remains. Of the crowd nearly 4000 were women.

Statement That President Approves of Payne Plan to Reduce Southern Representation Repudiated.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—There is no authority for coupling the name of the President with the statement published today that the administration is in favor of a change in the basis of and a reduction in the representation of the Southern states in Republican national conventions and in the House of Representatives.

Postmaster General Payne made this statement today as he left the executive office after a conference with the President.

"My position on the question of the basis of representation in Republican national conventions," continued Mr. Payne, "is well understood. For many years I have believed that the present basis is unfair and an improper one. I believe so now, and expect always to believe so, and I hope to see that basis changed by the next national convention. There is no power to change the basis of representation except by action of the convention itself."

Orders Cheers for Edward.

"Three cheers for his majesty, King Edward," cried the Emperor, who led the salvo of hurrahs.

Emperor William and the officers then repaired to the mess room of the regiment, where his majesty had luncheon. Subsequently he was driven in a closed carriage to St. Andrew's station and took a train to Sandridge, where the honoreary there are the Prince of Wales, Premier Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain. War Secretary Brodrick, Ambassador Lascelles and Sir Frederick Treves, sergeant surgeon to King Edward.

With the exception of the Shorncliffe review the reception of Emperor William was everywhere remarkably lacking in formality, he having especially requested that the guards of honor and similar attentions be dispensed with.

After the review the Emperor presented decorations to Lord Basing, the officer in command, and to other officers of the regiment.

SEARCH FOR LOST MAN.

GREAT NORTHERN SENDS LARGE FORCE TO FIND SUPT. EGAN.

Fears Entertained That He Has Been Killed, Either by Wild Animals or by Bandits.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—Supt. E. F. Egan of the Great Northern railroad, who went hunting at Belton, Mont., on Tuesday, has disappeared. Officials of the Great Northern railroad are alarmed and President James J. Hill has directed that 100 men be sent into the adjoining country to search for the missing man.

Supt. Egan's private car was sidetracked at Belton Tuesday afternoon. With him was a party of five friends. They started out to hunt big game. The country abounds in bear and mountain lions, and it is feared that they may have been overcome by one or more of these beasts.

A telegram from Kalispell received by Great Northern officials says it is not improbable that Supt. Egan encountered the bandit who held up the Great Northern train near Drummond last week and robbed it of several thousand dollars, and that the robber, thinking that Egan was after him, may have killed him. Superintendent of the fifty men first sent out returned reporting that they had obtained no trace of the missing man. Thereupon President Hill ordered out all the available men on the Kalispell division to hunt for him.

A heavy snow storm set in after the party started on the hunt, obliterating all trails, and for this reason no trace of Egan can be found. His private car is still standing on the side track at Belton, where his five guests are awaiting tidings of his return.

At Great Northern headquarters in St. Paul it is believed he has perished.

Imperial Yacht Hohenzollern with Emperor William Aboard Reaches Port Victoria.

London, Nov. 8.—The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern, with Emperor William on board, accompanied by the escorting German cruisers and a flotilla of British torpedo boats, reached Port Victoria at 8 o'clock this morning.

The arrival of the German Emperor was made the occasion of an imposing naval display. All the warships at Sheerness were dressed, their crews manned the decks and the usual salutes welcomed the imperial visitor.

The Emperor wore the undress uniform of a British admiral. The German ambassador, Count Wolff-Meternich, soon joined his majesty, who subsequently received the British court officials sent to attend him and the other members of the German embassy.

After breakfast Emperor William landed, the crew of the Hohenzollern manning ship and cheering lustily and the British warships firing another salute as the Emperor boarded a train for Dover on his way to Shorncliffe camp, where he will review the First Royal Dragoons, of which regiment he is honorary colonel-in-chief. Casual precautions were taken by the railway officials, and all traffic was stopped along the route to Dover half an hour before the imperial special train was due. Large British and German detective staffs were on duty and the junctions and the approaches to the stations were closely watched and cleared of spectators during the passage of the train.

It was raining heavily when Emperor William left the train at Dover, whence, mounted on one of his own chargers, he rode to Shorncliffe camp, accompanied by Lord Roberts and a brilliant staff.

Scores the Americans.

Marie Corelli, the authoress, has had her say regarding the American public and to say that her remarks are anything but complimentary is drawing it extremely mild. Marie says in substance that we are a lot of half-baked savages, so hungry after the almighty dollar that we don't know the first principle of manners or culture. That our millionaires are especially vulgar in their tastes and habits and that they know nothing but the desire to accumulate money in large and irregular chunks and gobs. She expresses it in a great deal worse language than this, but this is about what she means.

It seems that Marie is only human, however, in spite of any effort of hers to make us think to the contrary. Among the subjects she has lately been harping on in London is the fact that the society people there are so anxious to have their names appear in print, intimating that it was not the thing for a person of breeding to desire their name in the papers. It seems that there was a gathering in London recently at which Marie appeared, and all of the guests were named except Marie. She immediately kicked up a row and wanted them to "show her" why her name had not been included. It was explained to her that since she objected so strenuously to other people having their name printed, it was supposed that she did not care to have her name appear on an occasion of this sort. Of course she had nothing to say about the matter any further; in fact there was nothing to say, but it showed how little consistency there is in some of these people who pose as being just about the proper thing.

Government Ownership.

There is a growing sentiment among the American people that the government should own the telegraph systems of the country at the present time and later on assume control of the railroads. People are not saying much about the matter, but if a vote were taken without any politics being introduced it would be a surprise to many to find the number that favor the scheme. There are many arguments against government ownership of these two great industries, but the one thing that shows what might be done in that line is the mail service as it now exists in the United States. Considering the territory that is covered and the service furnished the public, we have the cheapest and most efficient mail service in the world. The efficiency of the mail service has greatly increased since the system was placed under the jurisdiction of the civil service commission, and the employees chosen and promoted by virtue of their merit rather than political pull and unless some president yet to come takes it out of the hands of this commission, there is no reason why it should not continue to improve. In spite of the fact that we have the cheapest postage in the world and that thousands of tons of mail matter are carried every year free of charge, the system is more than self supporting and for several years past there has been an agitation to reduce the postage on first class matter and there is no doubt but what in time this will be done. If these results can be accomplished in the mail service, why not equally favorable things be done with the railways and telegraph. The possibilities are there and there is no reason to doubt the results. It might be claimed that the government assuming control of the railroads would be along the line of socialism, and not to be favored. The maintenance of our telephone, electric light and water systems on the co-operative plan is as near socialism as it is possible to get, but our people realize that they are good things and with very few exceptions a man cannot be found who has a word to say against them.

Beware of Them.

It recently developed that there has been a party of so-called quack doctors claiming their home office to be at Chicago, working the rural districts in this vicinity very extensively and doing a land office business in the towns of Dale, Horton, Caledonia, and Maple Creek, says the New London Press. Their methods of working were for a young man acting as an advance agent to call at a farmer's residence and make inquiries as to members of the family who were ill or needed medical attendance, also making inquiries as to neighboring families, and should there be any invalids, it was his duty to ascertain the nature and the symptoms of the disease. He was a day or two later followed by "the Doctor" who on his arrival knew all about the invalid and was ready to treat any and all cases, it made no difference of what nature, his only requirements being that the patient or member of the family give their note for a certain amount which according to the doctor's tell was not to be paid unless a cure was effected and he (the doctor) to furnish the medicine and treatment for a stipulated time.

Cataract Cannot be Cured

With Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, Cataract is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Cataract Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Cataract. Send for testimonials, free.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "I hope it doesn't snow," said Larry P. Ward of Babcock, Wis., to Clark Randolph as he registered at the Schlitz hotel yesterday. "I am just in the midst of a rattling good business and I do not want the run broken. In the last sixty days I have sold 6,000 acres of pasture land in Wood county at prices ranging from $12 to $16 an acre, and better pastures cannot be found in this state. There are fortunes awaiting young men in the northern portion of this state if they will only go after them. With little capital a man can purchase a large tract of land and in a few years can soon place it on the market at a considerable advance. I would advise any young man to make an investment. I shall never regret mine. Politics? Well, I haven't much to say, only this: Even if the people of the state did turn Mayor Rose down for governor, in my opinion he did more to advertise the state than any man in it. This is why I make the assertion. During the campaign a man from New Orleans heard Mayor Rose speak in this state. The mayor told of the prosperous condition existing in the north, and after hearing the speech the man purchased a half section in Wood county. I benefited by the transaction, of course, but I would think the same had anybody else made the sale. Mayor Rose merely advertised the country and I consummated the deal."

We are pained to see that so broad-minded a man as Senator Hoar feels that party exigencies constrain him to assert that the "bad times of '93 were brought on by President Cleveland." We are not surprised when lesser men of tougher political consciences, and who also know better, repeat this old Morgan of the campaign of '94, but we did not expect it of the old Massachusetts senator. Would he say that the hard times of '73 were brought on by President Grant, or that the hard times of '84 were caused by Arthur, or that the panic of '90 by Harrison? Is the logic of coincidence not just as applicable to present conditions and can it not be as accurately said that the present monetary stringency was brought on by President Roosevelt? This is another of those two edged arguments which are quite as apt to cut those who use them as those on whom they are used. Besides they presuppose an ignorance on the part of those to whom they are addressed that is not complimentary to them.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Housekeepers in some sections of the country who have become discouraged over the servant girl problem have been trying the services of boys to make up the deficiency of female help and have found the experiment a success so far as it has gone. As a consequence the employment bureaus have received numerous applications for boys for domestics and have been unable to fill the demand. It certainly begins to look as if the male portion of this earth was up against the real thing sure enough. Funny papers have been picturing the man staying at home attending to the household duties while the women folks lighted a cigar and strolled out for an evening with "the girls" and it begins to appear as if they had probably called the turn properly. It may be some time before this stage is reached, but it is apparently coming.

Local members of the Modern Woodmen order will go slow on the initiation of new candidates and will handle them with gloved hands as the result of the decision of a Michigan state court which holds the order liable for injuries that may be suffered by members in the initiation. The decision was handed down last week and an award of $2,500 was made in a suit for $5,000. The case was instituted by a widow whose husband was injured in the rough handling given him by members in a Modern Woodmen lodge at Coopersville, Mich., where he was accepted into the order. Although the death was not charged directly to the injuries of the initiation it was claimed that it was hastened thereby. The decision is interesting to Woodmen and other fraternal organizations.

State Game Warden Overbeck reports that the number of licenses issued to hunters this year will aggregate 60,000, or nearly double that of last season. If the fatalities continue throughout the season, as they started before the opening of the season, there is no doubt that Wisconsin will make a record that she may feel proud of.

The people in this section expected to experience a regular old time winter on Sunday and Monday, as the weather reports stated that a cold wave was headed this way carrying with it zero weather or something worse. It was a trifle sharp on Monday morning but was nothing to complain of for the middle of November. They got the cold up in British America, however, where the land agents have been telling us that the cattle can take care of themselves all winter, and all the farmer has to do is to take up a claim of 160 acres and let nature do the rest.

The citizens of Wausau have been having a great deal of trouble with their water supply. The water has been off color and has a very disagreeable odor. The matter has been investigated by a scientist and he has stated that the trouble is caused by oxide of iron in the water. This caused a vegetable growth which discolors the water and causes it to smell bad and makes it anything but pleasant for drinking purposes. The only remedy suggested is the use of filters, which it is claimed will take out the oxide and eventually clear the pipes of the vegetable growth and the water will then be all right again. The installation of a system of filters for a city the size of Wausau is quite a proposition and will cost some money, and as is usual in such cases will probably give very poor satisfaction after installed.

It is apparent that nothing short of a panic will make Wisconsin a Democratic state. As long as crops are abundant and the commerce of the country is in a prosperous condition the Republican party can carry Wisconsin without effort. The state administration may be rotten to the core; individual members of the legislature may sell every vote they are permitted to cast; outside corporations may come into Wisconsin and buy the nomination of every man on the state ticket, yet withal the Republican party will sweep the state. Until the impression is removed from the minds of thousands of indifferent voters that a period of Republican rule and an era of prosperity are synonymous any effort to stem the tide will be in vain. What's the use?—Oshkosh Times.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I can recommend it with the utmost confidence. It has done good work for me and will do the same for others. I had a very severe cough and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. Almost a Miracle.
Case No. 49,763. Mrs. M. Isted, of 1207 Strand Street, Galveston, Tex., who is proprietor of a boarding house at that address, reporting among her boarders a dozen medical students, says: "I caught cold during the flood of September, 1900, and it settled in my kidneys. Despite the fact that I tried all kinds of medicine and was under the care of physicians, the excruciating twinges and dull aching across the small of my back refused to leave, and trouble with the kidney secretions began to set in. From then, ordinary Anglo-Saxon fails to describe the annoyance and suffering I endured. The fearful pain through my body, loss of appetite, loss of sleep, consequent loss of energy, and, finally, an indication of complete dissolution compelled me, from sheer agony and pain, to either lie on the floor and scream, or forced me into spasms. On such occasions my husband called in a physician, whose morphine treatment relieved me temporarily. I grew weaker and thinner, and so run down physically that nothing was left but skin and bone. All my friends, acquaintances and neighbors knew about my critical condition, and on one occasion I was reported dead and they came to see my corpse. At last the doctors attending me held a consultation and agreed that if I did not undergo an operation I could not live. Preparations were made, a room selected at the city hospital, and they even went so far as to have the carriage brought to the door to carry me there. I don't know why, but something told me not to go, and I absolutely refused. Now I want the readers to grasp every word of the following: A friend of ours, a Mr. McGaugh, knowing that my kidneys were the real cause of the entire trouble, brought a box of Doan's Kidney Pills to the house, and requested me to give them a trial. I had taken so much medicine that I was more than discouraged, and had little, if any, faith in any preparation. However, I reasoned if they did not do me good they could not possibly make me worse, so I began the treatment. After the third dose, I felt something dart across me like a flash of lightning, and from that moment I began to improve. The pain in my back and kidneys positively disappeared, the kidney secretions became free and natural. At present I rest and sleep well, my appetite is good, my weight has increased from 118 to 155 pounds, and my flesh is firm and solid. My friends actually marvel at the change in my appearance. Words cannot express my own feelings. I am not putting it too strongly when I say I have been raised from the dead. I am satisfied that had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills, taken when they were, I would have been either lying in the Lake View Cemetery, or an invalid for the balance of my life. I will be only too pleased to give minute particulars of my case to any one calling on me, not, of course, out of idle curiosity, but if they really have kidney complaint and want to know what course to pursue to get relief."

A FREE TRIAL of this great Kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Isted will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents per box.

Plants That Cough.
Man has not a monopoly of coughing. Before there was a vertebrate on the earth, while man was in process of evolution through the vegetable world, Eladotussens—that is what botanists call him, while we know him as "the coughing bean"—coughed, and blew dust out of his lungs. Recently botanists have been giving special attention to this bean, and tell interesting things about it. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries, and it objects most emphatically to dust. When dust settles on the branching pores in the leaves of the plant and chokes them a gas accumulates inside, and when it gains sufficient pressure there comes an explosion with a sound exactly like coughing and the dust is blown from its lodgment. And, more strange still, the plant gets red in the face through the effect.—London Express.

A Surprised Physician.
A dying patient recovers through the interposition of a humble German. Chicago, Nov. 15.
Some weeks ago Dr. C. G. was a very reputable and well-known physician, living on C. street, was called to attend a very complicated case of Rheumatism. Upon arriving at the house he found a man about forty years of age, lying in a prostrated and serious condition, with his whole frame dangerously affected with the painful disease. He prescribed for the patient, but the man continued to grow worse, and on Sunday evening he was found to be in a very alarming condition. The knees and elbows and larger joints were greatly inflamed, and could not be moved. It was only with extreme difficulty that the patient could be turned in bed, with the aid of three or four persons. The weight of the clothing was so painful that means had to be adopted to keep it from the patient's body.

The doctor saw that his assistance would be of no avail, and left the house, the members of the family following him to the door, weeping. Almost immediately the grief-stricken ones were addressed by a humble German. He had heard of the despair of the family, and now asked them to try his remedy, and accordingly brought forth a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. The poor wife applied this remedy. The first application eased the patient very much; after a few hours the used it again, and, to the wonder of the family, the pain vanished entirely. Every subsequent application improved the patient, and in two days he was well and out. When the doctor called a few days after, he was indeed surprised.

SPINNING WHEEL.
LOVE'S SORROWS.
I bought a girl boubaunere
With wide pink ribbon gart;
She thanked me for the dainty gift
In a most bewitching way.
I went in debt for violets.
She rapturously confessed
She doted on the purple flowers,
And pinned them on her breast.

I pawned my watch to buy a fan,
She let me call her Grace
And kiss her in the dusty hall
Before its painted face.
But when I bought a solitaire
Her maiden vow to bind,
I found it, with a freezing look, Misadvisedly declined.

SERIOUS MIXING OF LETTERS.
A well-known citizen of Clay Center had been invited to an evening party. He wanted to go, but his wife declared that she had no gown suitable for the occasion, and asked him to send "regrets" to their hostess. The man went down to his office and penned this facetious note of declination:

"We regret that your kind invitation must be declined for all the conventional reasons, but the real reason is that half the family has nothing to wear. My wife's latest dress is over three weeks old, and her hat is twelve hours out of date. You will appreciate the hopelessness of the occasion and excuse us."

He thought this pretty good, and he determined to write a note to his wife also explaining that he would not be at home for an early dinner, as she had asked him. He said in this note:

"I have turned down your invitation because I am going out to another evening party where the guests are not expected to wear anything of importance. Sorry I won't be there to kiss you good-night."

And then the fool man carelessly sent his wife's note to the hostess and the hostess' note to his wife.—Clay Center Times.

"What's your brother Sam at, Rachael?"

"He's in the middle of next week, dat's what he's at. jes' on account of his curiosity. He wanted ter know of Johnson's goat had a harder head dan his'n. Did he fin' out? No, he ain't foun' out yet. He won't fin' out till he comes to, and de doctah says dat won't be 'fore a couple ob days."—Judge.

Bobby Gaylor, who plays the title role in the new musical extravaganza, "The Wizard of Oz," has a harvest of stories reaped on both sides of the Atlantic. Here is one of Bobby's best, and he is full of them from Dion Boucicault's time down.

He was traveling through the west of Ireland with a small wagon show owned by the Lloyd Brothers, a team of musical clowns. The Lloyds had been with the Barnum show for one season on this side of the water and saved enough money to buy a circus outfit of their own, with which they toured towns and villages of Ireland. One night the tent in which they showed held such a sparse assemblage of spectators that Dick Lloyd, whose real name was Mulligan, was obliged to come before the scanty few and unburden himself of the following succinct apology:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: As there is nobody present I will dismiss you all. The performance of this night will not be given tonight, but the performance of this night will be repeated tomorrow night."

NEXT:

"He was very quiet during the first course, and everyone forgot that he was there. As dessert was being served, however, the host told a story. When he had finished and the laughing had ceased, the little son exclaimed delightedly, 'Now, papa, tell the other one.'—Editor's Drawer in Harper's.

GEOGRAPHY IN ENGLAND.
Sir George Birdwood has been telling some stories to illustrate the insularity and ignorance of English people in regard to foreigners and foreign countries. Staying with an English family in France, he learned that their English servant, though long resident there, had picked up no French, but had made the French servants speak English. When this was remarked upon by Sir George, her reply was that "Master and missus might speak French, if they liked, but she warden't goin' to demean 'erself by speakin' the langwidge of they people we thrashed at Waterloo." Shortly after, went on Sir George, the wife of a distinguished officer in the colonial office asked after the health of his son in Jerusalem. "He is in Cairo, in Egypt," was the reply. "But I thought Jerusalem was in Egypt." "Oh, no," replied Sir George, "I suppose you know Palestine soup?" "Yes, it has Jerusalem artichokes in it." "Well, Jerusalem is the capital of Palestine."

WOULD BE LIKE OTHERS.

"Oh," answered the philosophic citizen, "I suppose I'd be like the rest of humanity. If I were worth a million I'd probably worry myself into dyspepsia trying to make it a billion."—Washington Star.

A PATRIOTIC REMINDER.
Jay Cooke, the financier, was from his boyhood an enthusiastic angler. The wars of "Put-in-Bay" and "San-dusky" O., have often been the scene of his exploits from his earliest to his latest years. Concerning this harbor and its associations with a notable event in our naval history this little tale is a favorite of Mr. Cooke's: An old countryman entered a drug store in Sandusky, holding a handkerchief with a knot in it. "Well, uncle, what is it?" asked the clerk. "I'll get around to it pretty quick. Now, what place is it down here on the lake?" "Do you mean Put-in-Bay?" "Yes, that's it. Now, who was it that put in there?" "Perhaps you mean Commodore Perry?" "The very man. And I want a bottle of Perrygory."

NOT SELFISH.
A nephew of Col. Latham of Texas tells the following story of a negro baptizing in Texas:

An old negro preacher did the honors, and the candidate for baptism was a coal-black negro. The preacher let his victim far out into the stream, where he could be thoroughly immersed, and at the auspicious moment he cried in a loud voice:

"Be stiddy, sister, be stiddy, and you'll cum up whitah den snow."

"Oh, parson," she exclaimed, "dat's askin' too much; a cream colouah'll do."

A JOB'S COMFORTER.
"I dunno what in de 'roun' world make you so unsatisfied," said Brother Dickey to a former member of his congregation. "You lives in de country, don't you?"

"Yes."

"De coal strike don't hurt you?"

"Oh, no."

"You gets yo' wood free?"

"Ever' bit."

Here's a late story about Christian Science. A Boston mother said to her little daughter:

The child replied:

"Well, mother, if you had my toothache, you wouldn't have any faith."—Boston Herald.

A JOYFUL DISCOVERY.
With loud huzzahs the populace approached the rostrum, whereupon stands a modest man, who seems to deprecate their enthusiasm.

"I thank you," he says, "for this medal, but I did no more than any other man should have done in my place."

With renewed cheers the populace bear him away on their shoulders.

"Whose life did he save?" asks a stranger of one of the crowd.

"Nobody's," is the reply. "He is the first newspaper man who ever wrote an article about the opening of the oyster season without referring to it as the insidious bivalve."—Judge.

EXPLAINING THINGS.
"You sell ladies' hats here?" began the son-looking man.

"Certainly," replied the milliner, repressing a smile. "You want to buy one for your wife?"

LOADING SATAN DOWN.
"Lightning knocked the church steeple down," some one said to Brother Dickey. "Yes; Satan's eyes always flash fire when he sees a church steeple gwine up." "And here's a colored brother killed another at a camp meeting." "Yes; Satan goes ter meetin' 'long wid de res' er dem, en sometimes shouts de loudes." "And a preacher was drowned in the river last week." "Oh, yes; Satan's in de water."

"So you blame everything on Satan, do you?" "Bless God," was the reply, "ain't dat what he's fer?"—Atlanta Constitution.

"Kin anyone make a motion?" asked one of the audience. "Gents," said Alkali Bill, chairman of the meeting, as he laid his revolver on the table, "owin' to the general custom of wearin' weapons in these parts I trust no one will make a motion."—Philadelphia Record.

A STUTTERER'S WOOING.
"And he never told his love!"

"No, he stuttered so badly."

"Couldn't he sing it?"

"He could only sing in ragtime. And his whistle was a tremelo."

"And she married another?"

"No, she married him."

"How did that happen?"

"Why, he heard that she was engaged to another and braced up and came around to congratulate her, and he made such poor work of it that she thought he was proposing to her and accepted him on the spot."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN ARE SLOWLY DYING FROM CATARRH

Miss Katherine Dauter

November Colds Should Not Be Allowed to Develop Into Chronic Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Cures a Cold Promptly and Permanently.

"I am glad to recommend Peruna as it has done so much for me. I had been a great sufferer from catarrhal colds until I was urged to try Peruna, and I am happy to say that it has entirely cured me. I shall never be without it and most cheerfully recommend it to others who are afflicted as I have been."

Katherine Dauter, 239 13th St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Most people think the success of Peruna depends upon the use of advertisements. Undoubtedly the advertisements help some. But by far the greatest number of people who hear of Peruna, have their attention called to it by a friend.

Some one gets cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna. After he is certain of his cure, he is sure to recommend it to his friends. Friend recommends it to friend and the news spreads from tongue to tongue.

All the advertisements in the world could not make Peruna as popular as it is. Peruna cures. That is the reason people like it. Peruna cures a very stubborn disease. That is why everyone recommends it. Peruna cures chronic catarrh after all other remedies fail, which explains why

"Peruna was recommended to me about a year ago for catarrh with which I had been troubled nearly all my life, but which had given me serious trouble a few months before I took Peruna. In two weeks my head cleared up, I did not have headaches, and in a short time felt perfectly well."—Margaret Donnelly.

Miss Jennie Driscoll

Pe-ru-na Cures a Cold Promptly and Permanently.

"I found myself with a bad case of catarrh of the head and throat. Peruna was the first thing that I thought of. And my convictions were not wrong, for in a few weeks after using Peruna systematically I was entirely rid of this aggravating and distressing disease, catarrh."

"If people knew how efficient Peruna was for this trouble they would not hesitate to try it. I have all the faith in the world in it, and have never known of a case where the person was not cured in a short time."—Jennie Driscoll.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Good Advice.

A young farmer lad, who was born and raised in the same neighborhood with the writer, wants to know if he doesn't stand a better chance to make his way in the world by going to town rather than plugging away on a farm. He is just an ordinary farmer lad. We think that he had better stay on the farm. If he was the exception, if he had the ability to handle 1,000 men, if he could take hold of some company or corporation and make it yield dividends of 15 or 20 per cent., if he can do this then let him leave the farm, let him begin at the top. But for the average young man, he had better stay on the farm—not that farming takes any less ability or skill for the world is beginning to realize that the farmer should keep his best son on the farm; any of the others are good enough to make doctors or lawyers. We want to lay strong emphasis on that word "average." The average young man who goes to town, never becomes more than a freight conductor, or an agent, at some way station, or the oldest clerk in the store, or the oldest bookkeeper in an office. These had better stick to the farm. The chances for advancement in the commercial world are not as many as fifty years ago. All the small businesses are being consolidated so that there are few choice positions and the top place is farther away. The old man in the commercial world who has to work for his living is not a pleasant idea.—The Cannery Producer.

Very Low Rates to International Live Stock Exposition, Chicago, in the North-Western Line. Excursion tickets will be sold December 1, 2 and 3, with extreme return limit until December 8, inclusive. Apply to agents Chicago & North-Western Ry.

Iron ore was loaded yesterday at the Chicago & North-Western docks at Ashland, Wis., at the tremendous rate of speed of 5,000 tons an hour. The exact figures were 5,202 tons in one hour and eight minutes, the ore being loaded into the steamer James H. Hoyt, which is built with a special view to rapid loading and unloading. The North-Western Line has two big ore docks at Ashland, each one of them about 1/2 of a mile long, and it was at one of these large storage docks that the Hoyt received its load record-breaking time. Supt. Sampson of the North-Western personally supervised the loading, and several newspaper men witnessed it and corroborated the correctness of the record. The last ore was let into the hold, and the lines were cast off in record-breaking time in fact, the engineer of the boat hardly found time to get the water ballast out of the vessel.

This rapid work is made possible by the exceptional facilities of the North-Western line. Large capacity cars and big docks with large storage capacity have made the handling of tremendous quantities of ore possible. The docks of the North-Western line at Ashland and Escanaba have a capacity exceeding that of any other line in the Lake Superior region, to which is to be added one new building, which, when completed, will increase their capacity almost 50 per cent and be the largest ore dock on the Lakes.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot; and the second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Johnson & Hill and Wood County Drug Co.
